VOTE SHIFTS FREQUENT IN EMPIRE STATE

Many New Yorkers Doubtful About Smith's Fitness for Presidency

OTHERS TURN FROM HERB Religious Issue Considered One Uncertain Factor in Campaign

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1928, by Post Pub. Co. Utica, N. Y.—In this region where Governor Smith is well known and expected as one of the ablest executives the state of New York has ever had, it is curious to find that party loyalty and allegiance will reduce somewhat the Smith vote and tend to increase the normal Republican vote.

To put it another way the vote for Smith as governor can not be taken as coinciding by any means with what he will poll as a presidential candidate. Thousands of voters who admit having balloted in successive state elections for Smith are saying that on national issues they prefer to remain Republican. Indeed this is the strongest basis for the expected hope of the leaders that Hoover may carry the Empire state.

But it is also true that there are thousands of Republicans who never voted for Smith for governor and who did not feel acutely before some of the issues that his candidacy now involves, who say frankly they are not voting the Democratic national ticket for the first time in their lives.

Some of the best posted men in this section have told the writer that the shift from party to party will be considerable on account of the religious issue and this is the one certain factor in the campaign. They remark that the undercurrent of discussion about it is growing and that whereas the same fact confronted the religious partisan before in state elections, the issue was not as pronounced as it is today.

The prohibition problem has, of course, affected the attitude of many voters here who see constantly the traffic in liquor from the Canadian border and who feel that Governor Smith has put his finger on some of the hypocrisies of the situation.

But it is doubtful whether the prohibition issue is going to influence as many votes as other factors. Somehow or other Governor Smith's friendliness and familiarity, which has given him so many supporters among the masses, has produced an opposite reaction among certain classes of voters who like a more quiet type of administrator and executive. This accounts for an off-hand explanation of shifting votes, namely that Governor Smith might make a good governor and yet not fit in the presidency.

The Republicans have cultivated this idea consistently, especially in emphasizing Herbert Hoover's broad experience on national and international affairs.

DEBATE ON FITNESS

And if Herbert Hoover carries Central New York by a large vote than usual, it will be due to that interesting paradox which to some people hereabouts makes it possible to accept Al Smith as a great governor but not as the chief executive.

Ranieri Boy Is Set Free By Kidnapers

13 Day Search Is Ended When Billy Walks into Joliet Filling Station

BULLETIN
Chicago—(AP)—Billy Ranieri, 10-year-old victim of kidnapers who was released Tuesday by his abductors after being held for 13 days, Wednesday pointed out the pictures of two Italians as the men who kidnaped him. A. Scialiti, a relative, told reporters that the lad, now at home, had named as his abductors Julius Salusio and Pasquale Larooco, picking the pictures of the two men out of a group of 75 photographs brought from the bureau of identification for him to scan.

Chicago—(AP)—A little boy with a black eye wandered into a Joliet, Ill., filling station Tuesday night, and the 13 day search for the kidnaped Billy Ranieri, 10, was ended.

It was a very calm youngster who said to the station attendant, George Mair: "I want to go home. I've been kidnaped." Calm, particularly in view of the fact that his disappearance, the demand of $65,000 ransom for his return and a sequence of threatening letters to his parents had numbered with dread the Stellan community of Chicago in which he lived.

The lad, was unharmed except for the eye discoloration caused, he said, by a blow from one of the kidnapers' fists. He told a connected story of imprisonment on a farm and had a good word to say for the man and woman who were his jailers. His principal point, which he repeatedly emphasized during the hours of questioning by Sheriff Margraf, was that he wanted to go home "and see my Mamma."

He hit me over the head in the eye when they dragged me into their car," Billy said, reciting the details of the kidnapping on Sept. 5. "They kept telling me to shut up, and when I hollered anyway, they hit me."

HOOVER AND CURTIS GET BADGER O. K.

Bitter Struggle Results in Triumph for Foes of Progressive Wing

Madison—(AP)—In a bitter and protracted struggle that lasted until dawn Wednesday, the Conservatives gained the adoption of the state Republican platform which pledges support to Hoover and Curtis, emboldens the pledges of Walter J. Kohler, Republican gubernatorial nominee, and urges a thorough legislative inquiry into any excessive political expenditures in campaigns of the past four years.

In the final act of the hectic 17 hour session the Progressives turned the tables, as they had several times during the convention, to elect Herman L. Ekern, former attorney general and a Progressive, chairman of the newly organized and Conservative controlled state central committee.

In a bitter contest interspersed by parliamentary wrangles, numerous roll calls, heated verbal encounters and tense situations that brought feeling to a high pitch, the convention over rode the will of the Progressives on major questions for the first time in eight years. Holding the whiphand throughout the night but with no certainty that they would continue to dominate the situation, the Conservatives forced from their heated opponents, the Senator Robert M. La Follette and his followers.

BATTLE THROUGH SESSION
With the Progressives led by Alvin C. Reis, Madison attorney and assemblyman, fighting for every advantage, the Conservatives made the will of Mr. Kohler prevail as the platform of the Republican party in Wisconsin. They also defeated the Progressive proposal demanding an investigation of excessive sums in political campaigns and incorporation in the platform with no objection from their heated opponents, a plank urging a legislative inquiry into any excessive political expenditures during campaigns for state and national offices in Wisconsin the past four years.

The progressive platform, following closely the lines of the one on which La Folletteites ran for nomination in the primary was rejected, 62 to 59, late Tuesday night after being offered as a minority report of the resolutions committee. That body was controlled, 6 to 5, by the Conservatives, who elected Senator Walter S. Goodland chairman and adopted as its majority report, finally ratified Wednesday morning, the platform proposed by Mr. Kohler who sat as a member of the resolutions committee.

The platform which was accepted by the convention shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, with two amendments attached, was similar to that on which the conservative Republican candidate successfully sought the gubernatorial nomination. It was adopted by a viva voce vote with few dissenting after the Progressives saw their move for rejection defeated, 55 to 62.

BRING UP CAMPAIGN FUNDS

It was the move of the Progressives after their platform had been rejected, to raise the passage of the platform.

ROMA HOPS OFF BUT IS FORCED BACK TO LAND

Old Orchard, Me.—(AP)—A broken air intake on the carburetor, caused by backfire, halted the projected trans-Atlantic flight of the Roma Wednesday before the big Bellanca plane had covered five miles of the 4,450 to Rome.

The plane returned to the beach here 21 minutes after it had taken off. Joseph Bellanca of Wilmington, Del., designer of the plane, said the intake could be fixed without difficulty. The fliers, however, would make no statement as to their further plans.

Haugen Bill Is Favored By Al Smith

Governor Tells Nebraskans He Does Not Consider Liquor the Great Issue

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer
Omaha, Neb.—(AP)—With a flat declaration that he favors the "principle" embodied in the twice-voted McNary-Haugen bill as a working basis for adequate farm relief legislation and that he did not consider liquor "the great issue" in the present campaign, Governor Smith has opened his drive for the presidency in the west.

In an auditorium crowded to the doors, the Democratic presidential nominee, Tuesday night, tore into the Republican party for what he termed its failure to keep faith with the farmer, including by name his opponent, Herbert Hoover and President Coolidge in his indictment.

His own solution, he said and on which he and the Democratic platform stand squarely, was the principle laid down in the McNary-Haugen bill to "establish an effective control of the sale of exportable surplus with the cost imposed upon the commodity benefited." He added, however, that he did not "limit" himself to the "exact mechanics and method embodied in that bill" and proposed, if elected, immediately to name a non-partisan commission to work out the details of the problem. The equalization fee was not mentioned.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS
He answered a series of eight questions propounded to him in a full page advertisement in the morning newspapers by 10 Nebraskans who styled themselves "citizens of both parties." Smith adherents classified all of them as Republicans.

In his replies, he declared in substance that the president can do nothing about liquor, except to make recommendations to congress and assume a leadership on the question and further that he would not attempt to persuade any Democratic member of congress to go against his constituents if they wanted prohibition.

400 BELIEVED DEAD IN WAKE OF HURRICANE

Red Cross Worker Estimates Toll in Palm Beach Area—15,000 Homeless

Washington—(AP)—Deaths in the Palm Beach area as a result of the tropical hurricane were estimated at 400 in a message sent to the Red Cross Wednesday by Howard W. Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach chapter, and James H. Gilman, in charge of disaster relief. Fifteen thousand were reported homeless; 8,000 were without change of clothing; 9,000 were being fed at organized relief camps; and the property damage was placed at $30,000,000.

200 BODIES FOUND
West Palm Beach—(AP)—Howard Selby, chairman of the Palm Beach Red Cross organization told a conference of relief workers Wednesday that to date bodies of 200 persons, victims of the hurricane, had been located by relief workers. The bodies, half of them of white persons, were in the region about Lake Okechobee, Selby said. He said 50 already had been buried here and that other bodies were enroute here by truck and by boat.

"Conditions in the stricken area are growing worse every minute," Selby said. "About 8,000 persons in the lake region are in desperate need of clothing, food and medical aid."

STAND IN WATER
"They have been standing in water for hours and hours and there are a number of cases of double pneumonia. There are about 15,000 homeless in the county," (Palm Beach) Selby said. "The east coast area and Okechobee lake sections affected by the storm."

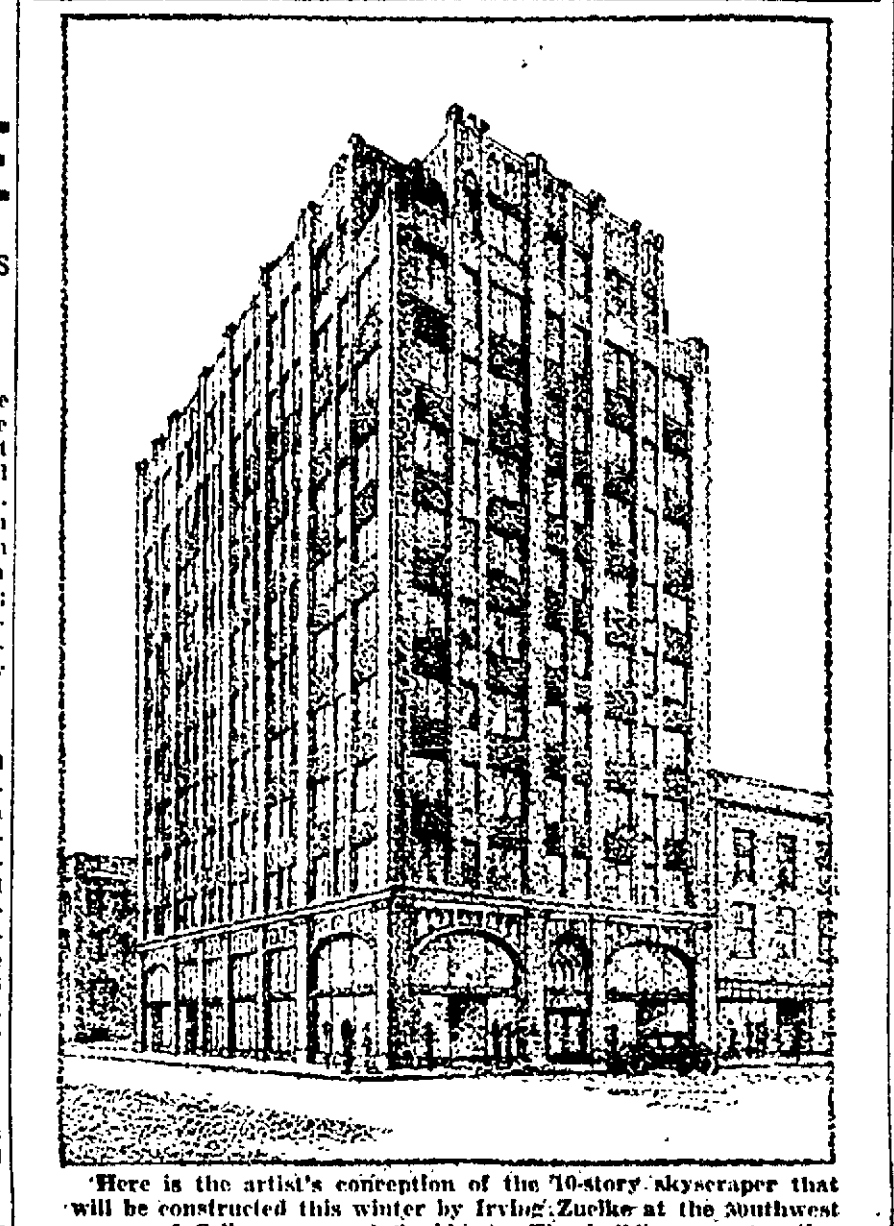

CHECK CASUALTIES
Jacksonville, Fla.—(AP)—While the remnant of last week's West Indian hurricane was veering toward the Virginia capes, Florida Wednesday checked a reported known death list of 250, casualties in the thousands and an emergency requiring military aid and immediate relief.

San Juan, Porto Rico—(AP)—With reports of food rioting current, nine companies of the Porto Rican National guard Wednesday were policing 23 towns of the island. The guardsmen were called out by Governor Horace M. Towner after reports became prevalent that in several towns devastated by the tropical hurricane starving people had stormed and looted stores.

New Zuelke Building

Here is the artist's conception of the 10-story skyscraper that will be constructed this winter by Irving Zuelke at the southwest corner of College-ave. and Oneida-st. The building, construction of which will start shortly, will cost more than $350,000.

Underwood Acquitted In Fransway Shooting Case

Deliberating less than an hour a circuit court jury at 6:03 Tuesday evening exonerated Lyman B. Underwood, 314 E. Hancock-st., who was charged with fourth degree manslaughter in the death of Raymond Fransway last July.

The case had opened before Judge Edgar W. Werner Monday afternoon and it went to the jury about 5:13 Tuesday afternoon.

Underwood's attorney pleaded that the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting of Fransway were unusual and entirely accidental. On Tuesday afternoon Underwood, told of being called from bed on the night of the shooting by Mrs. Nellie Van Wyck, who resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lock, in the first floor of the block of the same building which Underwood resides. Mr. and Mrs. Underwood occupy the second-story flat.

Fransway is Mrs. Van Wyck's uncle and lives next door. The Fransway and Rockstroff gardens adjoin each other and Fransway, with a flashlight, was seeking fish bait in the garden when Mrs. Van Wyck saw the light flitting about the bushes. Frightened she telephoned Underwood.

SETS $400,000 AS TOP PRICE OF STRUCTURE

Work Will Begin in Few Days on Splendid New Skyscraper in Appleton

TO FINISH IN 9 MONTHS
First Two Floors for Stores, Other Eight for 84 Office Suites

Construction of a 10-story store and office building on the southwest corner of College-ave and Oneida-st. will begin in a few days, it was announced Wednesday morning by Irving Zuelke, who is financing the undertaking.

The structure, estimated to cost between $350,000 and $400,000, will be known as the Irving Zuelke building. It will be completed and ready for occupancy in about eight or nine months.

When it is erected, Appleton will have one of the most beautiful office buildings in the state. Belford stone will go into the outside walls on every side.

The new skyscraper will rise 117 feet into the air. The frontage on W. College-ave will measure 60 feet, and the depth along S. Oneida-st. will be 110 feet.

Stores and shops will occupy the first two floors. The next seven stories will house offices. Plans call for approximately 84 office suites consisting of almost 200 rooms. A community hall will be located on the top floor.

The building will replace the one razed by fire last Jan. 25. The former building was erected about 46 years ago.

Contract for the work has been let to the H. J. Selmer Co., Green Bay, Mr. Zuelke announced. The Heim Cut Stone Co., Appleton, has the contract for the stone. Smith and Brandt, Appleton, are the architects.

TWO MEN DROWN WHEN FISHING BOAT BURNS

Menominee, Mich.—(AP)—Two men were drowned when their fishing boat was consumed by flames Wednesday morning when the fishing tug "Cynthia" caught fire in Lake Michigan near Marinette. The three men threw out life buoys and fishing boxes, but two were unable to make shore before they sank. The third was rescued by Captain Edward Olson who was in his fishing boat and whose attention was attracted by the flames.

SEVEN FAMILIES ARE DRIVEN FROM HOMES

Mauston—(AP)—Seven families were reported to have left their farms on the Lemonweir prairie and taken refuge with their livestock on the surrounding highlands to escape the rising flood waters. The Wisconsin river continued to rise Tuesday, going up 14 inches. The river had previously been at flood stage where its banks are low and the continued rise spread the flood waters over hundreds of acres of bottomlands, damaging the corn and potato crops.

Democrats Make Bid For Votes Of Progressives

Madison—(AP)—Phrasing a vigorous campaign expenditures, the charge of a platform to encourage Progressives to vote for the Republican party, it struck at the Democrats in a text book and declared for simplification of the state tax laws.

Here Is State Platform Adopted At Republican Convention At Madison

We, the qualified members of the Republican Platform convention, do hereby pledge ourselves as follows:

We promise our loyal support to Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis, Republican candidates for president and vice-president respectively, and we endorse the platform adopted at the Republican National convention held at Kansas City, Mo.

TAXATION

The purpose of taxation is to raise funds to meet the necessary costs of government economically administered.

The national government, under a Republican administration, has inaugurated and adhered to a policy of economy and business sense in the conduct of federal affairs, thereby reducing the burden of taxation on the people.

We pledge ourselves to conduct the affairs of state government with economy and good business judgment.

The obligation to pay taxes should be based on ability to pay, the benefits enjoyed from organized society and the valuation of property to be protected.

The burden of taxation on property in many instances has become excessive. This is especially true with reference to homes and farms. Government needs should be thoroughly studied and appropriations should be made to meet only such needs.

The practical way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenditures through economy and common sense business administration.

Efficiency in government is not possible with incompetent officials and faulty systems poorly administered.

The state income tax has become a recognized part of our fiscal system and we favor its retention.

We call attention to the fact that Wisconsin now has the highest income tax of any state in the union and any proposal to increase the income tax rates involves the danger of erecting barriers against the future economic growth and welfare of the state.

The income tax law of 1927 did not raise the rates but in effect resulted in a substantial increase of taxes for wage and salary earners, by abolishment of exemptions on income. We favor revision of the income tax law for the benefit of people with small incomes.

There are two effective means of keeping tax burdens within bounds: 1.—Increasing the sources of taxes by stimulating the development of existing industries and by making Wisconsin attractive to new industries, thus developing local communities and producing more taxable wealth.

2.—Obtaining in a greater degree a dollar of service or supplies for every dollar of state funds expended.

BUDGET SYSTEM

We pledge ourselves to the inauguration of a thorough-going scientific budget system for Wisconsin. Such a system to give full protection to the taxpayers must provide adequate control of all expenditures as well as appropriations.

We favor a system of accounting so clear that the citizens of this state will know from what sources all income is derived and for what purposes all monies are expended by each department, with state-wide periodic publicity of such accounting.

We pledge ourselves to the reorganization of state government by consolidating boards, bureaus, and commissions, wherever practicable, to avoid duplication of effort and expense, and the abolishment of any not required for the efficient service of the people.

FARM RELIEF

Agriculture is man's basic industry and the independent farmer is the backbone of the state's economy. This great industry does not now enjoy the prosperity of other business enterprises, and the independent American farmer is in distress.

We favor the retention of an adequate Federal tariff upon agricultural products to minimize foreign competition and such increases in tariff rates as may be necessary to protect the home market of the American farmer.

Relief for the agricultural interests of our state is not wholly a problem of legislation. It will be aided by careful business management and wise expenditure of government funds which will tend to relieve heavy taxes on farmers and farm lands.

Such relief will assist in bringing to realization on our farms, a higher American standard of home life and living comfort.

We favor government assistance to the farmer in obtaining accurate and ample information on crop production, distribution, and economical marketing to assist in maintaining a well-balanced farm production.

We advocate the encouragement of co-operative farm organizations, particularly in the dairy industry of the state.

Co-operation among the farmers should be encouraged for it is a step in the solution of the farm problem.

NEW INDUSTRIES

Farm, factory, and labor must prosper together. The populous industrial centers of the state afford a great home market for Wisconsin agricultural products, but the value of that market to the farmer depends largely upon the degree of industrial activity. One proof of this assertion is the fact that serious deficiencies in taxes on agricultural lands are found principally in the non-industrial parts of the state.

taxes which will benefit the farmer, the merchant and the wage earner.

LABOR

A good wage is the primary consideration of employment, which with the exercise of thrift will permit of a secure and independent life. It gives not only living comforts, but also attractive surroundings, thus realizing that high American standard of living which we acknowledge as our ideal.

The second consideration of employment is reasonable hours which permit time for education and recreation.

Wages and reasonable hours of work avail a man little unless there is continuous employment. It should be the concern of the state, insofar as it is practicable, to assist in bringing about a greater continuity of employment.

Unemployment is one of the greatest of our social and economic problems.

In the interest of permanent employment and in the interest of a more uniform flow of production, it is desirable to form a national bureau of statistics to collect and disseminate data on employment and business conditions throughout the nation.

The construction of state and federal works, such as waterways, docks, dams, public buildings and highways should be planned long in advance and executed as far as practicable during periods of depression in order to furnish employment to the surplus labor which exists during those periods.

We favor such laws as will increase safety, health and sanitation in employment.

We oppose the abuse of injunctions in labor disputes.

We believe that the interest and well-being of labor, both organized and unorganized, are of primary concern to state government and must be thoroughly protected.

HIGHWAYS

A carefully planned system of highways is not only desirable for the well-being and convenience of our citizenry, but is also essential to the economical and progressive development of our state.

We favor the continuance of highway development as rapidly as available funds and economical administration will permit.

Our first consideration should be through routes connecting roads are necessary, so that the agricultural areas of our state may have transportation facilities necessary to reach their markets economically.

We should not, however, build roads more expensive than are justified by traffic requirements or the needs of the people.

We favor the gasoline tax as one of the best means for obtaining the needed funds for highway maintenance and construction, and we also favor a fair readjustment from time to time of the distribution of the proceeds thereof.

The highway commission is charged with great responsibilities, involving interests of vital importance to the people which cost vast sums of money. We urge strict economy in the expense of state highway administration.

We favor a system of accounting so clear that the citizens of this state will know from what sources all income is derived and for what purposes all monies are expended by each department, with state-wide periodic publicity of such accounting.

We pledge ourselves to the reorganization of state government by consolidating boards, bureaus, and commissions, wherever practicable, to avoid duplication of effort and expense, and the abolishment of any not required for the efficient service of the people.

STATE AID

There are communities which, because of local conditions, require special consideration, and properly receive state financial aid to meet the necessary expenditures for schools, highways and other local purposes.

There is, however, a grave danger in a too general granting of state aid, which results in a careless expenditure of funds and a wasting of the people's money. State aid should be granted only after a thorough, impartial study of a community's facilities and its needs.

EDUCATION

The education of our future citizens is a most important duty of our state. Wisconsin spends more money for education than for any other purpose. While this great work must progress without interruption, strict economy and wise business judgment must be used in the proper expenditure of this largest item of state expense.

State appropriations for education are now so apportioned as to give reasonably equal educational opportunity for all, whether resident in remote rural districts or in the more prosperous districts of the state.

The "Wisconsin Educational Program" proposed by our present State Department of Education contains many meritorious proposals which should have the serious consideration of the legislature and the state government.

We pledge our support to a state educational policy which will develop and maintain a broad, comprehensive common school system in the cities and in the rural communities of the state, as well as adequate public facilities for higher education.

TEACHERS' RETIREMENT FUND

We favor the State Teachers' Retirement law, but the retirement fund, now in excess of twelve and one-half million of dollars, must be so managed that the purpose of its creation is not defeated. The fund was planned to give confidence and assurance in teaching as a profession. Bad management and political tampering will destroy the confidence so much desired. The fund should be considered as a trust by the state and subject to as careful restrictions as are private trust funds.

tional problem and its cost of construction should be borne by the entire nation.

Wisconsin is equally interested in the government improvement of the Mississippi waterway for large transportation.

CONSERVATION

A sound and foresighted conservation program requires the good will and wholehearted co-operation of all people of the state.

The Conservation Act passed through the initiative and long continued effort of the Isaac Walton League, American Legion, protective and propagation organizations, and many civic organizations, embodies the spirit which should govern this administration in conservation matters.

We believe that all moneys paid by sportsmen and commercial fishermen in the form of license fees should be used for conservation purposes, and particularly in restocking and replenishing our diminishing supply of fish and game.

Pollution of our waters is becoming an increasingly serious matter not only to fish and game but to public health. We believe in an intelligent and intensive study of the sources of pollution in order that these may be removed and the waters of our streams and lakes kept pure and wholesome.

REFORESTATION

Our forests are the basic importance to all branches of conservation and we favor a reforestation program which over a period of years will cover our denuded areas with trees.

To this end we urge the federal government to acquire acreage for reforestation purposes.

We favor adequate legislation and cooperation by the state to the end that every agency, including private owners, towns, counties and state and federal government, participate in the work of reforestation.

We favor a continued study of the operation of the severance tax law to the end that large areas under private ownership may be reforested.

The greatest menace to Wisconsin forests and wild life is the fire hazard. We believe the control of this hazard calls for use of modern and practical measures, both by state and private owners.

We also favor the making of adequate surveys, maps and studies of this state for the purpose of best utilizing and increasing our national resources.

We commend the educational work and accomplishments of conservation of the Isaac Walton League, American Legion, and far-sighted protective and civic organizations, and urge co-operation of all state agencies with these organizations in the vital work of conservation.

COUNTY ZONING

We favor the study of the principle of zoning as applied to the counties of the state for the benefit of the farmer and the state at large in order that the fullest economic advantage may be gained from the use of the land.

UPPER WISCONSIN LAND

An immediate and satisfactory solution of the timber land and subsequent tax problems of upper Wisconsin counties is imperative. We urge that the subject be studied by competent authorities so that a solution to this serious problem may be worked out.

WATERPOWER AND UTILITIES

We believe the development of the needed water powers of the state should be encouraged, but a careful study should be made of the valuation upon which public utility rates are based and necessary legislation should be enacted to fully protect both the public interest and the interest of the small security holder.

The importance of definite information respecting water power development in Wisconsin was recognized by the last Legislature and a joint committee of its members was appointed for the purpose of making an investigation thereof, which committee has, ever since its creation, been actively engaged therein, through public hearings and by making surveys and studies of developed and undeveloped water powers in Wisconsin. This committee has also made an extensive study of government owned and operated plants in Canada and will report to the session of the Legislature facts and conditions which will probably indicate legislation necessary to fully protect the public interest.

PROHIBITION

The people of Wisconsin have expressed their will as to modification of the Volstead Act in a legally called and conducted referendum. It is to congress that the people must appeal if there is to be any modification or change in the constitution or laws governing prohibition.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

In the field of the socially incapable, the state of Wisconsin has done little more than physically care for its socially unfortunate.

We favor a thorough study of this question looking to the formulation and adoption of a program which will provide not only adequate care for the unfortunate, but also establish a thorough-going work of prevention.

CHILDREN'S CODE

A children's code replacing obsolete laws, with provisions protecting the child under present day conditions, should be enacted. The children's laws, under which we are now operating, were largely enacted at the time of the forming of the constitution in 1848 and for the greater part they have never been changed. They are out of harmony with present day needs and are the cause of inadequate care, frequent neglect and brutal treatment of children. This is a great social and economic question and we favor bringing into its consideration the most experienced and best minds trained in the subject.

PUBLIC HEALTH

The consequences of sickness have long been recognized as a public economic responsibility. It will be our concern to promote measures which more effectively safeguard the public health.

STATE APPOINTMENTS

Appointments to public office should be based on qualification for the

WISCONSIN'S FUTURE

Wisconsin is a great state and its future is bright with promise.

It will progress as it should only if it has good government and good government is possible only when citizens interest themselves in public affairs, acquaint themselves with the principles of parties and actively participate in government by casting their ballots in elections.

Co-operation through political parties provides the means to obtain the benefits and advantages of our representative form of government. The Republican party with its record of performance and its purpose to serve the well-being of all our people, has earned the right to the position of the majority party.

We pledge ourselves to the best business administration of state affairs of which we are capable.

With a firm belief in the justice of the social and economic principles herein contained, this platform is submitted for the approval of Wisconsin citizens.

ASTRONOMY STUDY IS MADE EASY AT EASTERN MUSEUM

Solar System Photographs Are Made by Powerful Telescopic Lens

Providence, R. I.—(AP)—Astronomy is being brought, firsthand, to the people by a museum in Roger Williams Park, Providence.

Special effort is being made to make clear some of the fundamentals of this vast science to the amateur astronomer and layman who has only a vague idea of celestial phenomena.

Solar system photographs made by the most powerful telescopic lens equipment of four leading American observatories are the newest feature in this direction. The display is to be operated electrically.

Plates are being placed on the walls to provide a background for groups of six transparent photographic plates. The plates will be made from actual photographs of Mars, Jupiter, the Moon, Halley's Comet, Saturn and other celestial bodies whose names are familiar to the average person. The photographs also will include glimpses of some stars of which most people seldom hear.

By pressing a button the photographs will be presented in clear silhouette, clearly defining, in the case of the moon, the mountain ranges, craters and valleys that mark its surface.

Another outstanding feature of the collection will be a planetarium; an electrically driven device illustrating the phenomena of the earth, moon and other planets in the solar system. Mercury, Venus, the Earth and Mars will appear revolving about a glowing sun, the moon revolving in turn about the earth and the earth rotating on its own axis.

Aside from more technical teachings, the display will illustrate the how and why of the midnight sun, solar eclipses, lunar eclipses, causes of spring tides and the relative distance of the earth from the sun.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Mostly fair, slightly warmer tonight except in extreme southeast portion; Thursday partly cloudy to cloudy; possibly local showers in north portion; warmer in east portion.

GENERAL WEATHER

The only precipitation reported during the past 24 hours has been along the Atlantic seaboard attending the northern movement of the tropical storm. The pressure is high from the St. Lawrence valley to Texas, with fair and cool weather. This should continue to cause generally fair weather in this section tonight. A low pressure area now overlies the northern plains states and Manitoba, moving eastward, attended by rising temperature and some increase in cloudiness. This is expected to cause higher temperatures in this section tonight and Thursday, with increasing cloudiness on Thursday, possibly with local showers.

Never a Marcel Wave

By Edna Wallace Hopper

On the stage, in public and at private functions my hair always attracts. During my performances women never fail to ask the secret of my perfect wave and the youthful, lively sheen of my hair.

It is very simple. I wave my own hair. First I moisten it with my liquid hair dress. Wave and Sheen. I use a comb to apply it. Then I carefully insert the combs. I tie a piece of chiffon over my head. By the time I am ready to complete my toilette the waves are in to stay.

A radiant sheen, free from stickiness, is the chief charm of this simple method. Wave and Sheen is the only dressing I would use on my hair. It is the only preparation I know that does not give that "plastered" effect, which I cannot tolerate. The hair must have some air in order to be healthy and free from dandruff.

You can get a bottle of my Wave and Sheen at any toilet counter. It is guaranteed. 75 cents.

LOCAL COMPANY PAVES ROAD AT SHEBOYGAN

The Wilson Construction company resumed work of paving Highway 32 at Sheboygan, Monday. Heavy rains last week rendered construction work impossible for several days. It was expected that operations would be abandoned until the middle of this week, but the ground has dried sufficiently. The company is paving 12 miles of road into Sheboygan.

RURAL TEACHERS GET HEALTH TIPS FROM COUNTY NURSE

Miss Klein Tells Mentors
How to Keep Children in Good Condition

Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, in a letter to the teachers of rural schools of Outagamie county, gives a number of regulations to be followed in schools. She points out that strict observance of these suggestions will aid in advancing health conditions and keeping the children from disease.

She urged the teachers to devote five minutes after the opening of school in the morning to inspecting the clothing, hands, arms, neck and faces of pupils for cleanliness and skin eruptions. She pointed out that by this means abnormal conditions can be detected and many forms of contagion can be prevented from spreading.

No children should be permitted to come to school when they don't appear well or complain of a head ache, sore throat or a bad cough, Miss Klein said. She pointed out that this is in compliance with orders from the state board of health. If teachers have no copies of School Laws and Rules of the State Board of Health, Miss Klein urges them to write to the state board for one. They are free.

Thermometers should be hung at a proper angle and a monitor should be appointed to read it every two hours and record the reading on a specially prepared blank. A sample of the blank and instructions for regulating the heat of the room are given on the blank. Miss Klein pointed out that more people are subjected to colds because of overheated than under heated rooms. When the room is too warm the mucous membrane becomes dry and the resistance and vitality is greatly lowered, she pointed out.

School rooms will heat better if the monitors open the windows for a short period each recess and at noon, Miss Klein said as better circulation is thus established.

School health officers should be appointed by each teacher and monthly health reports should be sent to the township health officer and to the county nurse, the letter said. Through this cooperation better results in disease prevention can be obtained.

Children should be weighed each month and the weight should be recorded on a chart which will be provided by Miss Klein. Reports of the weight should be sent to each home on the report card.

Miss Klein urged the teachers to arrange to have parents present at the examination of pupils this year and she announced that the schools which make this arrangement will be visited first.

LOCAL MILL TO HAVE PAPER MAKING CLASSES

Classes in pulp and paper making starts at Riverside Fibre and Paper company, Wednesday afternoon, according to Arthur Bouffard, itinerant instructor in pulp and paper, who will direct classes. Classes at the Patten Paper company will start on the afternoon of Sept. 25.

The course will deal with the beating process, and will last for 10 weeks. The local plants have arranged their work schedules so that men working all shifts will be able to take advantage of the classes, according to Mr. Bouffard.

FINISH PLANS FOR GRAIN STOREHOUSE

Structure Will Be Erected on Corner of N. Richmond and W. Washington-sts

Plans and specifications for a new grain storehouse and office building of the E. Lethen Grain company to be constructed at the intersection of N. Richmond and W. Washington-sts have been completed by Earl Miller, architect. Bids for the contract closed Tuesday morning.

The new structure will be 98 feet long and 92 feet wide and will be five stories high. It will be constructed of solid concrete with brick veneer. It is estimated that the cost will amount to approximately $30,000.

A solid concrete unloading platform will be built on the south elevation, and six truck stalls are to be constructed on the north elevation. Office rooms will be on the first floor and the other four floors will be used for grinding grain and as warehouses.

The old structure at the intersection of W. College-ave and N. Richmond-st will be razed, and it is expected the corner will be leased. No definite action has been taken on the issue. Two large grain elevators which stand on the west side of the present building will be moved to the northwest corner of the Lethen property bordering W. Washington st.

COMMISSION WILL HOLD HEARING FOR BUS LINE

A hearing before the state railroad commission will be held in Appleton, Thursday according to word received here Friday, to consider issuance of a certificate to the Inter-City Bus company, to run busses from Appleton to Green Bay. The hearing will be held at the city hall and will begin at 10 o'clock.

NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA

SOCIETY

CITY SCHOOLS ASK
APPROPRIATION OF
$564,091 FOR YEARSchool Board Presents Estimation of Expenses to Common Council

Neenah—A total of $564,091 will be needed to operate Neenah schools next year, it was indicated at a meeting of the city council Tuesday evening at which the annual budget of the board of education was presented and asked to be placed in the tax budget.

The capital outlay for the year, which includes alteration of old buildings, is estimated at $448,000. Other items in the budget are $10,000 for grounds changes, $2,000 for equipment, $3,000 for a new service system, $5,000 for other capital outlay, $6,700 for expense of general control, $86,700 for expense of general instruction, $3,800 for coordinate activities, $7,700 for maintenance of school plant, $1,250 for auxiliary agencies, $21,250 for operation of school plant, and $3,800 for fixed charges.

Incomes from outside the taxes totals $27,545 according to the board's report. This amount includes various state aids, tuition, sale of test books, and rent from the industrial board and other patrons.

A total of $14,377.12 is asked by the industrial board. Estimated costs including state, federal and other sources totaled $3,162.85. Both budgets were referred to the finance committee.

Licensing of outside bakery wagons was discussed. The mayor reported there were nine outside baking companies operating here. The council was unanimous in adopting an ordinance regulating these wagons and asked the attorney to draw up an ordinance covering the situation.

MUST TRIM TREES

Notice is to be given property owners that along the city will do the work and charge same to them. The request of the city several weeks ago, asking that property owners trim trees, especially in localities where street lights are hidden from view by the branches, has received poor response as not more than 30 people heeded the notice, so steps will be taken by the city to abate the nuisance caused by the branches.

Work of improving the west end of the city, known as the Island, was started by authorizing a new sidewalk grade established there that will raise the properties which, during the spring, are flooded by high water. Walks will be raised and lots filled and in several places the residences will be raised to conform with the new grade. The work was left with committees on street, highways, and bridges and sidewalks.

The ordinance declaring Harrison and Union-sts arterial highways during the construction of Winneconne and S. Commercial-st pavement was repealed, and traffic on those streets returned to its original plan. The finance committee reported on bills amounting to $20,845 which were authorized paid. The claim of Mrs. Leon Gazecki for $3,214.41 in settlement for injuries she received on an alleged slippery walk, was disallowed by the committee and attorney. Licenses to sell non-intoxicating liquors were granted to Mrs. Alice Engle and the Neenah bowling alley. Mayor Sande, in granting the licenses, stated it was time that a halt was called in granting these licenses as the city has now far too many for its size.

WILL READJUST LIGHTS

A light was authorized placed at the extreme east end of E. Wisconsin-ave and the lights at intersection of S. Commercial, Winneconne-ave, and Cherry-st. be readjusted to give better light at the Winneconne-ave corner. The council will readjust for a new snow plow. A cement floor and drain was authorized placed at the city tool house and resolution was passed providing for construction of a sanitary sewer on Hewitt-st. between Third and Fourth-sts.

JUDGE PAROLES NEENAH
MAN TO LOCAL PASTOR

Neenah—Harry Hawkenson, arrested Monday on a disorderly conduct charge, appeared Tuesday evening in Justice Jensen's court and was paroled to the Rev. George Clifford. In case he violates his parole he will be sentenced to 10 days at Winnebago-co workhouse. Hawkenson again was brought into court Wednesday morning on complaint of Abe Weisberg, fruit store proprietor, who claimed that Hawkenson was selling fruit belonging to Weisberg. The judge took the case under advisement.

TWIN CITY FOLKS
GIVE FLOWERS TO THEIR HOSPITAL

Residents of Neenah and Menasha are invited to offer flowers for patients confined in Theda Clark hospital to be picked up by Appleton Post-Crescent Flower Cars beginning Saturday June 2, and every Saturday until the end of the flower season next fall. Persons who will have flowers for the hospital are invited to leave their names and addresses at Ehlers Drug store, phone 24, if they live in Neenah, and at Frank Hoffmann's grocery, phone 212, if their residence is in Menasha. All calls must be made to those places before 8:15 on Saturday morning. It will be impossible for the Flower Cars to call for flowers if the calls are received after that hour.

BANKS, SAWYERS LEAD
CITY BOWLING LEAGUE

Neenah—The City bowling league occupied Neenah alleys Tuesday evening with its weekly matches. Several clean sweeps occurred during the rolling. Bergstroms won three games from Banks No. 1, Banks No. 2 won three from Radio Lunches, Jersild Knits walked off with three from Austin Fuels, and Sawyer Papers took three from Stanelle Service Stations.

Burr of Zuelke Music company team and Jape of Stanelle, rolled high single game of the evening with 240, although Burr lost two games to the Queen Candies and Crabs won the odd game from the Neenah Papers.

Queen Candies rolled high team game with an even 1,000, also high three games, total of 2,811. Fritzen had the high individual series with a 632 score, followed by K. Metz with 620.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF NORTHWEST SYNOD OPENS

Neenah—The Seventh Year Program committee of the Synod of the Northwest of the United Lutheran churches opened its annual session at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Paul English Lutheran church with the Rev. R. H. Gerberding of Minneapolis, president, presiding. The meeting is attended by a committee appointed once each seven years to promote and develop benevolence and evangelism in the congregations.

Problems were discussed during the day's meeting. A banquet will be served at 7 o'clock in the evening in the church dining room for 200 people.

Among the committee-men present are the Revs. C. H. Bartch, E. R. Wicklund, P. L. Wetzler, R. H. Gerberding of Minneapolis; M. D. Halerman of Landtown, Minn.; W. F. Gerberding of Fargo, Minn.; John Fenner, Milwaukee; Dr. George W. Hender, Racine; Rev. G. Koehler, Great Falls, Mont.; Rev. G. I. Meck, Racine; Rev. John Fritz, Neenah; Rev. C. C. Roth, Beloit; Rev. L. W. Steckel, secretary, Milwaukee; Rev. H. C. Rex, Janesville; J. H. Jensen, treasurer, Janesville. Norton Williams, Neenah, will be toastmaster at the banquet.

CAR IS DAMAGED WHEN STEERING GEAR BREAKS

Neenah—A sedan owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Kunz, Oakwood Beach, Oshkosh, was badly damaged Tuesday evening on the Manitowoc road when a bolt in the steering gear broke, throwing the car out of control. The car was ditched and turned over. The driver, who failed to give his name, and who was uninjured except for a few scratches, caught a passing bus and went on to Oshkosh, where it was said he is employed by the Case Threshing Machine company. Arthur McLeod of the Nash service was called to bring the car to Neenah where, up to noon, the owners had not appeared to arrange for repair.

STACKER IS ELECTED
SENIOR CLASS LEADER

Neenah—Howard Stacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stacker, Hewitt-st, was elected president of the Senior class Tuesday evening at a meeting of the class after the afternoon session. Charles Neugbauer was elected vice-president; Miss Ruth Sawyer, secretary and treasurer; and Howard Reppe, faculty advisor.

RED CROSS QUOTA FOR SUFFERERS IS $250

Neenah—The quota to be raised at Neenah by the Red Cross for the Porto Rican and Florida hurricane sufferers is $250, according to a message received Wednesday at the local branch office. The relief fund is to be raised throughout the nation by the Red Cross. Donations are now being received and as soon as the quota is filled, the money will be forwarded to the St. Louis headquarters, where it will be forwarded to places in need.

CITY OFFICIALS WILL ATTEND FAIR THURSDAY

Neenah—City officials will be closed Thursday to enable officials to attend Neenah-Menasha day at Winnebago-co fair. Mayor Sande has requested business places to close and urges that this city be represented at the fair by as large a delegation as possible. The fair opened Tuesday with a crowd which broke all previous opening day attendance.

ARREST GREEN BAY MAN FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Neenah—A Vandervel, Jr., of Green Bay, was arrested Tuesday afternoon on the Jackson-st road on a charge of driving his automobile while intoxicated. Officer Irving Stipp apprehended Vandervel while he was on his way to the Winnebago-co fair with a load of prize chickens to place on exhibition. He was to appear Wednesday in Municipal court for a hearing.

NEENAH

Neenah—Robert Kollath, son of the Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Kollath, entertained a group of 12 young people Tuesday afternoon in honor of his sixth birthday anniversary.

WORKMAN INJURES FOOT
UNDER ROLL OF PAPER

Neenah—Clarence Woldfang was slightly injured Wednesday morning when a heavy roll of paper fell on his foot while he was working at the Bergstrom mill. X-Ray pictures did not reveal any broken bones.

RESERVE ASSOCIATION WILL PLAN ACTIVITIES

Neenah—Fraternal Reserve association will hold a business meeting Friday evening at Danish Brotherhood hall. Beside the routine business, the meeting will arrange for the fall and winter social activity program.

OAKFIELD CAR IS DAMAGED IN CRASH

Menasha—C. A. LaDoux of Oakfield, driving his car east on Sixth-st was struck on the left side about 11:30 Tuesday morning by a car driven by Wilford Martell of Menasha going south on Racine-st. The fenders and running boards of both cars were damaged.

BEG PARDON

A news item appearing in Monday afternoon's edition of the Appleton Post-Crescent stated that George Lenz, 216 E. College-ave was shot in the eye by Roman Fahrback, Menasha, while hunting ducks on Lake Foygan, Sunday morning. Lenz was shot by Norbert Fahrback, Menasha.

Miss Tharm Meyer submitted to an operation for removal of her tonsils Wednesday morning at Theda Clark hospital.

TWIN CITY
DEATHS

MRS. JAMES CHRISTENSEN

Neenah—The body of Mrs. James Christensen, Chicago, 82, who died Tuesday at Chicago, will arrive at 7:30 Wednesday night and will be taken to Oak Hill cemetery chapel, where at 10 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral service will be conducted. Mrs. Christensen was a former Neenah resident.

STREET EMPLOYEES ARE ORDERED TO
CUT WEEDS IN CITYCouncil Decides Workers
Should not Spend All Time
Cleaning Streets

Menasha—In following out a suggestion of Mayor W. E. Held made at the council meeting Tuesday night, street sweepers will hereafter divide their time between keeping the street clean and the weeds cut.

Mayor Held said he observed in touring around the city that the weeds needed cutting and as the city had no funds to hire weed cutters he suggested that the street committee see that the street sweepers alternate their time, putting one day on cleaning the streets and the next on removing the weeds.

Wherever the weeds are neglected by property owners he recommended that the weeds be cut and the expense charged to the person owning the property.

Alderman Brezinski said he wanted to go on record as favoring the narrowing of the sidewalk on Main-st and made a motion that his vote be reconsidered. It was lost, however, by reason of the fact it received no second.

A communication concerning a bus hearing between Appleton and Green Bay scheduled for Appleton on Thursday, Sept. 20, was referred to the city attorney. William J. McEwen was granted a license to operate bowling alleys on Chute-st. With reference to the $50 claims for injuries by Mrs. Charles King and Mrs. W. S. Davidson, each of whom fractured an arm by a fall on the sidewalk, City Attorney Spengler recommended that the claim of the former be allowed as the accident occurred at the high school and he considered the city liable.

Upon the recommendation of the water and light committee it was decided to advertise for bids for additional power equipment for the utility plant, the bids to be returnable at the next meeting. A weight limit of six and one half tons and a speed of ten miles an hour for vehicles using Mill and Naymut-st was adopted and order published. The ordinance provided for a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 for violations.

Mayor Held said he found that the city has a lot of arterial signs on streets that have never been called for by the ordinance. He referred it to the street committee to investigate. The matter of placing arterial signs on Racine and other streets, necessary to make arterial streets by the diverting of traffic, was discussed. Alderman Brezinski thought the ordinance ought to be changed. He also advised the council that the street commissioner was in need of 20 additional arterial signs. The street committee was authorized to make the purchase and also to revise the street ordinance at the earliest possible date.

Upon the request of Alderman Kolashinski the water and light department was ordered to place a light on Grand View-ave east of Tayco-st. The street committee was instructed to repair River-st between Washington-st and the Soo Line track. Following a discussion on the condition of the voting precincts the clerk was instructed to call for bids for the sale and removal from the premises of the Second, Third and Fifth ward precinct buildings, the bids to be returnable Oct. 2.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Menasha—Miss Bertha Klimeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Klimeck of Stetsonville, and Florian Shedgeck were married at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Mary parsonage by the Rev. John Hummel. Miss Ella Klimeck, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Rosella Shedgeck, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Earl Grapengieser of Appleton was best man. The ceremony was followed by a wedding dinner at Hotel Menasha, which was attended by 22 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Shedgeck will reside at Neenah.

Miss Margaret Ahrens entertained at a table shower Monday evening for Miss Marie Schmalz who will become a bride the latter part of this month. Bridge was played and the honors were won by Miss Lilliosa Gruper, Miss Schmalz and Miss Anita Schlier.

More than 35 Appleton people spent Monday evening at Menasha park and took advantage of the American legion dance at the new Memorial building.

The Royal Neighbors held a meeting Tuesday evening in Knights of Columbus hall. The business session was followed by refreshments, which were in charge of Mrs. Emma Paver as chairman of the refreshment committee. Cards followed, and honors at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Marie Hanke and Miss Minnie Conrady and at whist by Mrs. Rhea Bauernfeld and Mrs. Lucy Bayer.

The Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church will give a card party Wednesday evening at St. Mary auditorium. Prizes will be awarded.

The Mystic Workers will give an open card party Wednesday evening at Knights of Columbus hall. Schafkopf, whist and bridge will be played.

A card party will be given Wednesday evening at Memorial building at Menasha park by the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Patrick church. Lunch will be served.

Mrs. Elmer W. Gottfried entertained the Schafkopf club Tuesday evening at her home, 124 Broad-st.

Menasha—By defeating Neenah Paper company softball team again Tuesday evening 8 to 0, the Park Stars of Menasha won the championship of the Twin Cities. The game was played at Columbia park, Neenah, and was witnessed by more than 300 fans. The visitors took the lead early in the game and had little trouble holding it. The battery for Menasha consisted of Sherman and Father. Klutz of Menasha scored the only home run. Each team won first place in its leagues.

and Naymut-sts. Traffic above six and one-half tons is detoured by way of highway 125. The lighter buses of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company are operating over Mill-st bridge.

CLOSE TAYCO-ST TO TRAFFIC WEDNESDAYOld Bridge Is Opened for Last Time Early This Morning for Herman Hitz

Menasha—Tayco-st was closed to traffic at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. The last boat for which the old bridge was opened was the Herman Hitz, which was on its way to Green Bay for a load of coal. It is still open and will remain so until wrecked. The new foot bridge is now being used and vehicle traffic is being detoured by way of Mill-st bridge. Heavy barricades have been erected on each bank of the canal to prevent accidents. The bridge is now in charge of Wisconsin highway commission, which will also have charge of opening and closing the draw in the footbridge to let boats through.

Gus Herman, Tayco-st bridge-tender for 17 years, has locked his shanty on the bank of the canal and is now directing traffic near the intersection of Mill, Keyes, Ahnape-

CARUSO'S SON WON'T SING BECAUSE OF DAD'S INJUNCTION

Enrico II Is Member of Chorus but Refuses Solo Parts

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
Brooklyn, N. Y.—"If you cannot sing better than your father, do not sing at all," Enrico Caruso told his son Enrico Caruso, II, years ago. That's why the son sings only in the choruses, and has no featured role, in "Echoes of the Past," a vaudeville act in which he is now appearing.

"What I am doing in vaudeville I do not consider singing, so my conscience is clear as far as my father's injunction is concerned," he said. "I realize that I cannot sing as my father did—and that probably I never shall be able to. Voices are not inherited, as lands and money may be, but are the result of years of labor and study. I appreciate how my father worked to earn his position in opera. I have no desire to borrow any of his glory, or trade on his name. I want to make my own way, and go up or down by my own efforts only."

Young Caruso is interesting not only as the son of a famous man, but also as himself. Without knowledge of his background, one might assume him to be a typical American. His Latin edges have been rubbed off in the process of an international education, and he has the perfect American accent and point of view.

HAS TRAVELED FAR
In widely scattered lands he has developed his talents and his tastes. Born in Florence, Italy, he was educated there and in London. Several years ago he came to this country and graduated from Culver Military Academy.

He is athletic, fond of boxing, swimming, golf, and riding, with a taste also for drama, and literature. He wears American clothes, like American dancing, admires American girls.

The reason for his trip to America at this time—he only recently landed from Florence—was not a stage contract, but litigation over his father's estate.

DISLIKES IDLENESS
"Then since I do not like to be idle," he explained, "I was glad to take a try at vaudeville. My part is a speaking role rather than a musical one. I represent the dignity of opera in contrast with the abandonment of jazz. It is interesting, and fun. And the fact that people seem to like the act makes it worth while."

Those interested in bringing young Caruso before the American public are not nearly so modest

Here is Caruso's Son

Here are two camera studies of Enrico Caruso II. In the lower photo he is holding a bronze caricature of his famous father, modeled by the father himself. The elder Caruso was a sculptor as well as a singer.

about Enrico's singing as he is. They say, that for one of 24, he has a remarkably fine voice, which may develop into a very great one. They say he has inherited the dramatic fire of his father, and that a dramatic future is assured for him.

A STAR AT COLLEGE
Until he went into vaudeville his stage experience was limited to amateur theatricals at college where he distinguished himself. He plays the piano with great facility, and is quite proud of the way in which he can play American jazz, as well as the classics.

Caruso credits most of his musical taste and appreciations to the influence of his father. The famous opera singer usually spent his summers in Italy, where he saw much of his two sons by his first marriage. The other son, Rodolfo, had no artistic leanings, and is now a successful florist business man.

"Business has no lure for me," said Enrico the second. "I admire my brother's commercial ability, but I never could follow his example."

CHINESE ARE READY TO REFORM ANYTHING

Shanghai—(AP)—Supplementing the nationalist government's program for the political and military renovation of China, instructions have been issued covering weddings, funerals, dress and other matters.

Everything must conform to the "democratizing" pattern of the new regime. The committee on ceremonial rites and national costumes reached an agreement on the following items:

"It was decided that ceremonial rites must be based on the principles of economy, simplicity and appropriateness."

"An atmosphere of joy and happiness must prevail at weddings; that of sorrow at funerals and that of silent reverence at sacrificial ceremonies."

"Regarding national costumes, the committee announces that the principles of simplicity, beauty, convenience, hygiene and convenience be emphasized. Native materials should be used extensively."

National costumes will be divided into these classes: civilian, women, military, students, government officials, judicial officers and foreign affairs officials."

HOOVER'S OPENING SPEECH

If Mr. Hoover's opening address at Newark in his speaking campaign is a criterion of what is to follow, he has set a very high standard for this class of discussion. As an exposition of labor and industrial economy, considering its political purpose and appeal, it is a masterpiece. We doubt if any other American has in so few words set forth so lucidly the trend of modern business and industrialism, grasped its significance so clearly and perceived in it such tendencies and ultimate results as this competent analyst. Certainly never in a political campaign have we had such an intelligent and hopeful treatment of the relations between employer and employee. After reading Mr. Hoover's address one can hardly fail to be struck with the thought that if a man like this had it in his power to direct the economic life of the country he would make it square with our social ideals.

Comparing present day wages with pre-war wages, he finds they are today about 50 per cent greater while at the height of war inflation they were about 30 per cent over 1913. Real wages, therefore, are now at their highest peak. His comparison of American wages in terms of purchasing power with those of other leading countries is particularly impressive. Unlike the common type of politician, he does not explain these achievements by Republican administration. To use his words, "It makes no claim to credit which belongs to the enterprise, energy and character of a great people. Education, prohibition, invention, scientific discovery, increase in skill in managers and employees, have contributed to magnificent progress. But all of these efforts would be incomplete and the margin of employment would have been less had it not been for the co-operative actions taken by the government. And it is this margin of employment which makes for the safety or danger of labor."

The speaker reviews the effects of the protective tariff, immigration policy, promotion of foreign trade, which, by the way, is today at its record volume with our exports 58 per cent over pre-war, and general increase in national efficiency. Mr. Hoover tells of government activities through the department he has administered in the development of foreign commerce, of healthy industrial conditions at home and of wider and more lucrative employment. He has made elaborate studies of wastes due to seasonal unemployment and of unemployment during depressions; to speculation and over-production during booms; to labor turn-over and labor conflicts; to intermittent failure of transportation, of supplies, of fuel, of power and credit to synchronize with demand; through lack of simplification and standardization in many of our commonly used commodities; to loss in our processes and material and scores of other directions. These wastes, he says, represent a huge deduction from the goods and services and employment we should all be enjoying, and it is his purpose to eliminate them so far as possible. He shows what is being done toward this end through scientific application, and the results are surprising. They should convince every working man, as well as every industrial executive, that here is a man of extraordinary genius capable of assisting both to a wider, fuller and more fruitful life.

Mr. Hoover outlines a program of extensive public works which he favors, including development of water resources, public roads and construction of public buildings, requiring an expenditure of upwards of $1,000,000 within the next four years. He proposes to carry it on in such a way as to take up the slack of occasional unemployment.

Mr. Hoover's discussion of the relations between employer and employee are worthy of the careful study of every industrial head and every laboring man in the country. In addition to imposing "restrictions on the excessive use of injunctions," he says it is his desire and the desire of every good citizen "to ameliorate the causes of industrial conflict, and to build toward that true cooperation which must be the foundation of common welfare." The first requisite to less conflict, he holds, is full employment. Next he lays down the proposition that "the highest possible wages are the road to increased consumption of goods and thereby to prosperity." Both, he adds, accept the fundamental fact that "greater efficiency, larger application of mechanical devices and full personal effort are the road to cheaper costs, lower prices and thus again to wider consumption and larger production of goods. Both discard the ancient contention that labor is an economic commodity. Both realize that labor is entitled to participation in the benefits of increased efficiency by increased wage." Read particularly closely his conclusion:

He would be a rash man who would state that we are finally entering the industrial millennium, but there is a great ray of hope that America is finding herself on the road to a solution of the greatest of all her problems. That problem is to adjust our economic system to our social ideals. We are making progress towards social peace and contentment with the preservation of private industry, of initiative, and full development of the individual. Working out of this ideal cannot be attained by compulsory settlement of employer and employee conflicts by the hand of the government. It cannot be attained by placing the government in business and reducing our people to bureaucracies.

It is idle to argue that there are no longer any conflicts of interest between employer and employee. But there are wide areas of activity in which their interests should coincide, and it is the part of statesmanship to organize and increase this identity of interest in order to limit the area of conflict. Conflict diminishes and common purpose flourishes only in prosperity and in an encouraging atmosphere of sound governmental policies.

Our economic system has abuses; it has grave faults in its operation. But we can build toward perfection only upon a foundation of prosperity. Poverty is not the cause of progress. Enduring national life cannot be built upon the bowed and sweating backs of oppressed and embittered men and women. It must be uplifted and upheld by the willing and eager hands of the whole people. They will uphold it if our economic life be built for the whole people, not for any special group. To assure this sort of progress our first necessity is to assure the ability and character of our leadership.

Under such leadership replenished constantly from the great mass of our people we can aspire to a democracy which will express a common purpose for the common good. We can build a civilization where national conscience is alert to protect the rights of all, curtail selfish economic power, and hold to the ideal of distributed contentment among the whole people.

Mr. Hoover's Newark address reveals one thing above all others and it is this: That in him we have one of the ablest, most farseeing, most efficient and at the same time human candidates for the presidency we have ever had. And he is not lacking in humanities. This address in itself stamps him with singular, even extraordinary, fitness for this great office. It makes him the outstanding figure of the day in relation to our domestic problems, both economic and political. It makes the prohibition squabble petty and cheap. It reveals a man particularly prepared by experience, training and achievement, to meet the great practical questions of the day. It reveals the highest qualities of leadership, moral discernment and justice, combined with a proved competency in actual performances. Not once in his Newark address is there a touch of demagoguery and professional appeal. He hardly mentions politics or the Republican party. He is talking principles of government, principles of conduct, principles of social and political economy. Every word shows he knows what he is talking about. Every word indicates expert knowledge, sound judgment. His leadership, we venture to say, offers more to labor and to right relationships between capital and labor than has heretofore been available in our government. Its possibilities for good are enormous.

THE INGENIOUS GERMAN

A bulletin from the National Safety Council remarks that women are often injured while alighting from street cars and buses because many of them hold on with the right hand, and thus dismount facing the rear.

A street car company in Germany, however, with true Teutonic ingenuity, has discovered a means of converting them.

A mirror is placed in the forward side of the car exit. Thus, when a girl or matron prepares to get off, she discovers it and, invariably pauses for a moment to view herself in it. And this brings her into the proper position to step off the car—holding on with her left hand, and facing the front!

Truly, these Germans are clever people.

There are at least 500 different kinds of human heads.

REVIVAL OF THE GOOD OLD RHEUMATISM

Arthritis (a medical term meaning joint inflammation) is not simply a joint disease but a general disease with general manifestations, according to Dr. Robert O. Osgood, of Boston. In an abstract of a study of arthritis, by Dr. Osgood, published in the Bulletin of the Buffalo Academy of Medicine, chronic (long enduring) arthritis is divided into two types, namely, the atrophic type, usually seen in persons under middle age, and the proliferative type, usually in persons past middle age. So far as choice between the two types is concerned, I don't know whether I'd rather be a young guy or an old duffer.

In the young guy's kind of rheumatism, according to Dr. Osgood, there is slight limitation of motion early in the illness. Swelling may be present. X-ray pictures show little change in the joint surfaces. The cartilages of the joint are usually normal. Later in the illness there is some atrophy or shrinking of the bone ends, loss of substance.

In the old duffer's rheumatism, the proliferative type, there is a swelling of the affected joint or joints with proliferation of the synovial or lining membrane. The joint surfaces sometimes disappear entirely or in part. The thickened portions of synovial membrane sometimes ossify.

You keep your tonsils or bad teeth and take your choice.

Or maybe you keep your tonsils and teeth and still escape the rheumatism. Dr. Osgood mentions some pertinent statistics bearing on this question. He concedes that focal infection (as from diseased tonsils, neglected root abscesses and the like) the underlying cause in a great number of cases of type one or atrophic arthritis as he calls it. But he says that it is radical to assume that removal of such foci will effect a cure. He observes that Pendleton found such foci in 72 per cent of cases of arthritis which he studied; in those cases where Pendleton removed the foci 16 per cent recovered. In a series in which Pendleton did not remove the foci 46 per cent recovered. This suggests to Dr. Osgood that the problem of chronic arthritis is not entirely one of focal infection or surgical intervention. It does not signify so much to my mind, for I conceive that Dr. Pendleton is enamored of the metabolic theory of arthritis. And he may be right at that. Dr. Osgood goes on to define his own attitude thus:

"It is needless to sacrifice tonsils and teeth on suspicion only, but it is preferable to build up the run down condition these patients usually have. To further emphasize—tonsillectomy was advised in a series of 70 children. The operations were not done, but after a certain period of time, it was found necessary to remove the tonsils from only four of these children."

Just what this healthful hygienic living embraces, Dr. Osgood does not explain in this article. Whatever regimen he may prescribe for children, I fancy I would say amen to it. But when Dr. Osgood drags in 240 old soldiers to fortify his position, I'm for calling out the guard and herding those old soldiers back to their barracks. I quote from the abstract in the bulletin:

"Considering the etiology, worry, fatigue and exposure are important factors. In a series of 400 cases of arthritis in soldiers, all of whom had arthritis with (probably misprint for within) two years after enlistment, 60 per cent reported arthritis following exposure and lowered general resistance without any relation to foci of infection."

Old soldiers always have been fond of ascribing their rheumatism to exposure in the line of duty and this theory seldom fails to impress the pension board—but I'm surprised at Dr. Osgood.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tone the Skin and Skin the Client

Beauty specialists (the word specialists is double underscored) when giving a facial, tone the skin with a piece of ice or an astringent which tightens the skin, therefore closing the pores. I am often amused by your views, some of which I think are ridiculous. (Miss E. K.)

Answer—You'd be surprised how much amusement some of the beauty specialists get from the credulity of their customers. One successful young woman conducting a beauty shop assures me that the majority of her clients are just plain dumb and no line of bunk is too absurd for them. I should say so. This childlike fancy that an "astringent" will close the pores or otherwise improve complexion is a good example.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Sept. 23, 1903

The Musicians union which had recently been granted a charter elected new officers the previous night. They were John Steidl, president; Matt Bauer, vice president; Wenzel Hassman, secretary and treasurer; Joseph Opperman, sergeant at arms; A. M. Meader, Joseph Hassman, Louis Krause, emergency committee.

A party consisting of Harvey C. Pearson, William Van Nortwick, Fred Woezel, John C. Carson, Steven Murphy and John C. Person were to leave the following day on a five days hunting trip. They were to go to the Okechish and then up the Wolf river as far as New London.

The local plumbers, steam and gas fitters were about to form a union. The formation of this organization was to make the fifteenth separate union in the city. It was expected that the painters would be next in line, for they had several meetings.

A double wedding took place that morning at Menasha when Henry Kamp was married to Miss Emily Goodman of Neenah and Edward O'Brien and Miss Martha McGann of Neenah were married.

TEN YEARS AGO

All the allied countries agreed that Germany must be decisively beaten before peace could be made.

The American army in France was to number 4,500,000 by July 1.

John W. Davis had been selected by President Wilson as American ambassador to Great Britain. It was officially announced that day.

Miss Edna Fisher had just put a new book on the market, "Cheerful by Request."

Children in all the schools were asked to save peach stones and other fruit pits and nut shells which were to be collected and sent to government officials for making gas masks. The pits were burned and the charcoal that was produced was used in the manufacture of the masks. Seven pounds of pits or shells were required to make sufficient charcoal for one mask.

On account of the high cost of wrapping tissue, which had advanced from 15 to 25 cents, it was expected that the patrons would be asked to return tissue in order that it might be used again.

Inter collegiate athletics at Lawrence were to be disposed of until after the war.

Editor Post-Crescent:

At the Council meeting Sept. 5 the council saw fit to pass a resolution bringing the matter of the proposed East Wisconsin Avenue Subway before the people to be voted on at the coming election No. 6. And this, as I understand, after notice was served on the Mayor by the Attorney General for the city to proceed with the construction as per orders of the Railroad commission.

Why ask the people NOW to vote on something that has been ordered by the State more than three years ago and something which the people's vote cannot change, no matter which way their ballot is cast. Every normal intelligent person knows that the State cannot be bluffed into submission by one or the other municipality or corporation at will. And every thinking person also knows that the resolution calling for a referendum at this stage is not only futile and childish but a cowardly attempt to load the responsibility for the consequences of the Mayor's recent veto onto the shoulders of the people. Why add insult to injury? Another expensive lawsuit is hanging over our city, futile and hopeless at best, but connected with heavy expenses and incidental attorney's fees. And the responsibility of this lawsuit is to be rolled upon the shoulders of the unsuspecting public. In other words, the public is to be made "The Goat." A cunning, clever trick isn't it to crawl behind the skirt of the voting public, so to speak, at a moment when the arm of the law is reaching out to grasp some duty shirking gentleman by the collar.

If it is so easy to dodge the letter of the law, then I would suggest that the people be given the opportunity to vote on the proposed sewer separation question which project will cost the city more than $500,000 to say nothing of the sewer disposal plant. The sewage has been dumped into the river for so many years now, why can't we go on dumping it there and save upwards of a half million dollars? This law is based mostly on the principle to preserve fish life in the rivers. The other law covering separation of grades is based on the principle to preserve human life.

The separation of sewers to preserve fish will cost the city the bagatelle of more than $500,000 and the grade crossing separation on Wisconsin Avenue to preserve human life will cost $30,000. In addition the subway will be just as important to Appleton as an entrance from the East, as Memorial Bridge is as an entrance from the South, notwithstanding all the propaganda to the contrary. If the present plans are too expensive why not revise them as was suggested at the meeting of Sept. 5th? If the present policy is carried through, then the city will spend the price of construction in courts and still pay for the construction proper with additional money. We have had several experiences in courts which should have taught us a lesson. In 1910 the city saw fit to try the constitutionality of the law creating the Railroad Commission and its powers, in our Waterworks Case. Upwards of $25,000 was spent in courts and the city was left holding the bag. In fact, the city is still paying for litigations. Three years ago the Tax suit against Outagamie County was started. Everybody figured the city had a clear case. Evidently the Supreme Court figured differently. Again the city was left holding the bag, after spending several thousand dollars in Attorney's fees. Does the Mayor and some of our councilmen think that the taxpayer's good money will be continuously thrown out for hopeless lawsuits? No, our citizens are sick and tired of seeing their money spent in this way. On the other hand why not ask the people to vote on the recovery of the $100,000 from the county. Surely every Appleton resident would be in favor of getting it back. But would the Supreme Court submit to a demand of an overwhelming vote? Again, why not vote by referendum on every question that involves large expenditures of money? For instance, if the Fifth Ward asks for a storm sewer costing approximately $30,000, let us go to the polls with it and tell the voters it will be voted down by other five wards because they don't need it and vice versa with the 6th Ward and the Fourth Ward. And instead of a modern intelligent, just and businesslike government we will create a Civil War in Appleton.

Let the Council take care of its duties to which its members were elected and not try to unload upon the public responsibilities that belong and should fall back on the Council.

Scores of people have told me they would refuse to vote on the question either one way or the other because of lack of knowledge and I believe they are right, very much so. Signed A citizen.

A. As an ornamental the blueberry is attractive both during the blooming season and the harvest season. In the fall the foliage changes to a distinctive and beautiful shade of reddish bronze. It can be grown quite easily in any acid sandy soil.

Q. Is the word faces singular or plural? H. H.

A. It is a Latin plural. The singular is facies.

Q. Is it true that during the time that Herbert Hoover was in London he voted in the British election? T. H. S.

A. Mr. Hoover says that he did not vote in any of the elections while he was in England.

Q. How old was Isadora Duncan when she began to teach dancing? R. M.

A. In her autobiography she says she had commenced to teach little when she was six years old. At the age of ten, she conducted dancing classes.

Q. Why is Missouri sometimes called the Bullion State? W. P.

A. The allusion is to Col. Thomas H. Benton who, being an advocate of gold and silver currency in Congress, was called Old Bullion.

Q. How many times have the taxes been reduced under the last Republican administration? W. S. D.

A. Taxes have been reduced four times during the Republican administration, that is during the last eight years. The reduction bills were passed on November 23, 1921; June 2, 1924; February 26, 1926; and May 29, 1928.

DAILY HEALTH HINTS

CHILD'S MENTAL POWER CAN EASILY BE TESTED

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

All sorts of tests have been developed to show whether or not a child is developing normally from the mental point of view.

If the child is to be feeble-minded, it is important to know this as soon as possible so that the greatest advantage can be taken of the early years in proper training.

Many tests have been worked out to indicate whether or not the mentality is up to what it should be for a child of that age.

In the Binet-Simon tests, which are a standard, the child of three years is asked to show his mouth, nose and eyes; it is asked to repeat two numbers which are not consecutive and it is given three opportunities to repeat numbers in this way. If it succeeds once out of three times it is considered as not below normal intelligence.

EASY TEST

A simple test is to show the child a picture in which there are four or five objects of importance and to ask it to name the important objects. A child of three years, if normal mentally, is usually able to do this. A common picture will show a boy, a dog, a tree, a car as some similar subjects.

By the time the child is four years old it should know whether it is a boy or girl, it should be able to name successively three familiar objects shown to it, such as a spoon, a blade and a pencil, and to repeat three nonconsecutive numbers.

The six-year-old child should be able to tell whether or not any particular time of the day is noon or evening; it should be able to define the use of a fork, a chair, a knife or a table.

The eight-year-old child should be able to count from 20 to zero backward in 20 seconds, and to give the date of the month or some similar information.

A nine-year-old child should be able to distinguish pieces of money and to enumerate the months.

TEST FOUNDATION

The tests that have been developed will seem to the adult relatively simple, but each of them constitutes for the child a certain amount of definite brain activity.

These tests represent the results of careful observations of thousands of children.

Certainly conspicuous failure in their performance should demand special attention by the parents to the question of the child's education.

CONSERVATIVES WIN AT WISCONSIN MEET

State Senator H. J. Severson's amendment on campaign expenditures that developed the greatest bitterness and acrimonious debate of the long hard fought session. Severson's resolution said that "the expenditure of money on a scale such as characterized the recent primary is subversive of good government," and urged the most thorough investigation of excessive political expenditures and of any violation of the corrupt practices act.

Characterizing it as an attempt to gain political advantage and aimed at once candidate for state office, the Conservatives marshalled their entire forces to defeat it. But it took hours of debate, in which the Conservatives receiving a setback when Lieutenant Governor Henry A. Huber, the chairman of the convention, held that the Severson resolution was properly before the convention as a minority report of the resolutions committee. Boos, hisses and shouting greeted Huber when he read his decision which included the text of the Severson resolution. Charles B. Perry of Wauwatosa, prominent Conservative, appealed from the ruling of the chair.

The conservative's substitute was adopted unanimously after Reis, seeing that the Progressives were defeated, announced that while his faction had preferred the Severson resolution, they wanted an investigation and asked that it be adopted unanimously. It was and was the only time both sides agreed.

EKERN ELECTED

When the morning broke the election of the state central committee and the assembly thinned. Ekeren was elected by a vote of 61 to 56 over State Senator Goodland, nominated by the Conservatives.

A farm plank written by State Senator John C. Schumann of Watertown, who attempted a Lowden boom in the pre-convention campaign, was substituted. It pledged the party to seek relief for the farmer through gaining a high tariff to protect the farmer against foreign competition and in his home market, and through legislation to give the fullest aid to cooperative organizations.

Another plank which was not included in the prepared advance of the Conservative platform put the party on record in favor of the purchase of a state park in southwestern Wisconsin.

It was a stirring scene reminiscent of past legislative battles within the same hall that took place during the long night session in the assembly chambers beginning at 8 o'clock and continuing with only two brief recesses until 5:30 this morning.

The opposing factions crossed swords in an unrelenting fight from the outset and there was no truce not even at the end. With few exceptions a roll call was demanded and at least 25 were taken during the convention prolonging the session. The intensity of the struggle for the upstart at times put the convention in turmoil and on occasion the banging of the gavel by Mr. Huber, who strove to preserve order, went unheeded. Time and again several men were on the floor seeking recognition.

REIS GALLANT FIGURE

Fighting practically alone to carry the day for the Progressives was the boyish and able assemblyman and attorney from Madison, Mr. Reis. On occasion he had the help of State Senator Severson and State Senator Walter Hunt from River Falls, but for the most part Reis fought his lone alone, against nearly a dozen Conservatives led by State Senator Goodland, Charles B. Perry, Frank L. Prescott and others.

As the convention turned to consideration of the minority report Mr. Prescott offered a preamble to it which would have placed the Progressives on record as endorsing cover and Curtis.

"I want to put you on record as a Republican," Prescott said to Reis. "You can get me on record anytime you want to."

Chairman Huber finally ruled it out of order and an appeal from the decision of the chair was taken. Huber was upheld, 73 to 40, the vote Mr. Huber said "I am astounded at the number who voted against the decision of the chair."

Senator Bruce Johnson said something about that spectacle of "gag rule" being presented on the floor, and Huber interrupted to say "we must have some respect for the chair. Does the senator mean to insinuate that the chair is mentioned when he speaks of the gag rule?" Johnson replied "Absolutely not."

Johnson sought to present from the floor, an amendment to the majority report plank on taxation so that the bill be retained for another two years to give it a fair trial. Mr. Huber held it could not be considered as under the rules all resolutions as to be referred to the resolutions committee. Suspension of the rules was sought and lost 62 to 61. A two-thirds vote was required.

ADVISE GRADE TEACHERS TO HOLD FIRE DRILLS

A meeting of teachers of the third and fourth grades of the public schools was held Tuesday afternoon at the Lincoln school.

The committee selected from this group to work on the geography outline includes Mrs. Leila Mortimer and Miss Elsie Ackerman, chairmen; Misses Thelma Kading, Pearl Carvon, Lois Sartelle, Grace Johnson, Catherine Bachman, and Ellen Jones, Misses Emma Penn, Olga Heller, and Evelyn Davidson are chairmen of the supplementary reading program, with Misses Rachel Cody, Irma Temple, Ella Burwell, Cora Levee Murphy and Mildred Nichols assisting them.

The teachers were advised to hold at least ten fire drills while the weather is favorable.

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

MR. WORK'S POINTERS ON AUCTION BRIDGE

Continuing the series of fifty Bridge questions, two of which were submitted yesterday in relation to Deal G. Deal H with one question relating to it follows:

DEAL H.

South is the Declarer playing a No Trump contract.

QUESTION No. 16. What cards should be played to the first trick?

ANSWER BLANK

West should lead —; Dummy should play —; East should play —; South should play —.

ANSWER

To trick 1, West should lead the Four of Clubs, Dummy should play the Deuce of Clubs, East should play the Ten of Clubs, and South should play the Five of Clubs. South makes the unusual play of ducking and losing a trick, although he holds the Ace, King and Queen of the suit led; he does this because he knows that East has no more Clubs. Having eight in his two hands and knowing that West could not have made a sound lead from a suit of less than four cards, South knows that East's Ten must have been a singleton. The Declarer must lose one Club trick, as there is no chance for either hand to discard a losing Club; and losing that Club on the first trick forces East to lead up to one of Dummy's three tenaces. East's lead must enable the Declarer to make at least two tricks in the suit led and must give him information which will be of value in the subsequent development of the hand.

If South won the first trick, he would have to lead Spades, Hearts or Diamonds and take the 50-50 chance of a Dummy finesse instead of having the benefit of a sure-fire East lead up to Dummy.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week for about six weeks, Mr. Work will present a most interesting and instructive series of Auction Bridge queries.

Start a contest in your family and with your friends on this special series. You will be rewarded with a greatly increasing knowledge of Auction Bridge and increased enjoyment from this great game. Tell your friends.

Birthday May Be Gala Days Or Sad Events

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"W" HO'S birthday is it?" asked the teacher.

Pedro Periz stood up proudly while the school sang, "Happy Birthday to you" with gusto.

Pedro's swarthy ears glowed merrily. It was a great day in Pedro's life. That night all the relations, his Uncle Juan and his Uncle Esteban and their families came to Pedro's house with gifts. There was a great cake with candles, but also other delectable dishes, hotly seasoned things that tickled the appetites of the family Periz.

The next day Pedro's glow extended beyond his ears. A new necktie flaunted itself gorgeously below his chin. From his jacket pocket peeped, or rather glared, a handkerchief much striped with red.

Across the aisle from Pedro sat Richard Morton.

Pedro's birthday was on Tuesday. On Friday when the teacher asked "Whose birthday is it?" Richard stood up with dignity.

He did not blush; he did not look particularly happy. Indeed, he looked rather bored while the school roared out its usual greeting.

He sat down quietly and went on with his lessons.

The next day Pedro inspected him closely. He looked at Richard's tie, at his pocket, at his shoes—everything. There was nothing exciting about his neighbor, to his great disappointment. The checked stockings were one of Richard's regular pairs. Pedro knew them all—the black and white diamonds, the ones with the touch of red—a pair for every day had Richard.

His tie was not new, either, and his handkerchief neatly folded was the usual uninteresting white.

At four o'clock Pedro could stand it no longer. "What did you get for your birthday yesterday? A watch, maybe? A bicycle, eh?"

"Nothing," said Richard.

Pedro could not believe his ears. "Nothing?" he echoed. "Just a cake and some relations?"

"No—no cake. We don't believe in such silly things as birthdays at our house. Mother is away. Dad was at the—at the club, I believe."

Richard turned his head away, but Pedro understood instantly.

"Say," said he with a deprecating wave of his hand. "Then birthdays is silly, ain't they? Cake and presents 'n all. They're for girls, ain't they? Next year I'm going to say to my Mama, 'I'll run off if you have those things for me. I'm a boy. I am.'"

Richard had recovered himself and walked on. But he felt better for the delicate sympathy.

Household Hints

FRUIT PORRIDGE

With cooler days children should have not porridge for breakfast. Appetizing is oatmeal or any cooked gruel that has raisins, figs or dates cooked right in it.

SAFETY MAT

Every bathroom should have two mats, one to step out onto when finished, the other one of the "safety" variety, made of auction rubber caps which will not slip with you when you stand on it while taking a shower.

BATH SPONGES

Wash your bath sponges thoroughly every few days. Use either milk or boiling water with some diluted tartaric acid. Rinse thoroughly and dry in the sun.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE little kittens all sat still, and one said, "We will wait here till you try and find our mittens. We lost them while upon a roam, and now we're scared to go back home. Our mother would be very mad, and spank us all, I guess."

"Now, don't you worry," Clowzy said. "Before it's time to go to bed, I'm sure that Scouty will return and bring you all good cheer. Wee Coopy sure will lend a hand, and Carry too. That will be grand. While they are all out looking, I believe that I'll stay here."

Then Coopy said, "We might have known that you would stay to stay alone, and let the rest of us go out. You're just as lazy as can be." Then Scouty smiled and broke right in. "Oh, what's the difference. Let's begin our search for their small mittens. Come on there, Tynymites, with me."

The three then scampered over the ground, while Clowzy, very shortly found that all the little kittens were just full of play and fun. One of them said, "See time won't drag, let's have a little game of tag." And then it touched Clowzy, and mad shouts began to run.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Clowzy. "I'll get you," but found it rather hard to do. The little kittens scampered up a tree, high in the air. Poor Clowzy! He was fooled this time. He stood and looked a moment, then he said, "That isn't fair."

Just then they heard a merry shout, and wondered what 'twas all about. They looked and saw kind Scouty, and the other Tynies, too. Soon Scouty cried, "We've traveled far, and found your mittens. Here they are. Now you won't get your spankings, 'cause we've brought them back to you."

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin

It was her second day on the job in Mr. Lincoln Pruitt's advertising agency that Crystal was called to the phone as she was taking dictation from him.

It was Tony.

"Hello, beautiful, I'm downtown just rarin' for somebody to eat lunch with. I know the duckiest place—Russian. Meet me at the library at 1, won't you and I'll whisk you over? Loads to tell you! I must talk to you! Didn't get a chance to tell the real news with all the tadpoles about the other night."

"But I must go to lunch at 12," said Crystal, conscious of Mr. Pruitt's listening ears and his impatience at the call taking her from the dictation, anyway.

"Make 'em change it," ordered Tony who had never been a poor working girl in all her life.

Mr. Pruitt granted when he heard that "Tony."

"Pleasant before business, young lady—go to lunch with your young man whenever you must. Office always here, you know. But if you could, please just train him not to phone you at 10 in the morning."

"I'm so sorry, Mr. Pruitt," said Crystal in a voice that was sincerely sorry, for the things Bob had said to her that night in the living room had her on her mettle to make a go of her job, "but it isn't a man, it's just a girl—Tony Tarver, you know—we roomed together at boarding school and she wants to see me this noon, but I'm explaining to her that Miss Morse goes out late, so that I go early."

"Well, stop explaining and run that 'Tony'."

along when you want to, child. Miss Morse can shift her hour for once."

Miss Morse belonged to a vintage which wore its hats atop the head and not jammed down over one eye.

But she jammed it on so viciously as she prepared for her 12 o'clock lunch per orders of Mr. Pruitt that she looked almost flapperish. Her grey eyes blazed like those of an affronted old tabby cat shooed out of the best chair.

Crystal happened to be in the next room, but Miss Morse directed no conversation her way. Her words were for the edification of Miss Harris, her friend from the office across the corridor and infinitely more for Crystal's ears.

"We've got to expect it—us women who don't do any more than give a firm the best there's in us to time, taking no lunch hours, never away rain or shine, sick or well—we've got to learn that those things don't count these days. It isn't efficient help employers want, it's young things around showing their legs and filling the office with cigarette smoke."

"I think I'll turn in my resignation right away. Fifteen years I've been slaving here and this is the first time anybody's ever told me to go to lunch at 12 o'clock just so's a newcomer can go when she wants."

"Now I have an enemy," thought Crystal.

BREAKFAST—Cassia-melon, cereal, vegetable hash, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked Mexican corn, cabbage and carrot salad, brown bread and butter, chocolate drop cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Broiled minced lamb cutlets, scalloped potatoes and onion corn salad, baked pears with chocolate sauce, milk, coffee.

Many children around five years of age appear their pangs of hunger by quickly drinking the prescribed glass of milk and then fussing and playing with the necessary solid food. One way to overcome this habit is to wait until the vegetables and bread and butter have been disposed of before serving the child his milk. Then the bait of a cookie with the milk makes it "go down" happily.

BAKED MEXICAN CORN

Two cups chopped tomatoes, 1 cup corn cut from cob, 1 cup corn meal, 1-2 cup stoned ripe olives, 1 cup chopped onion, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 teaspoons minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix thoroughly and turn into a buttered baking dish. Cover and bake one hour in a hot oven. Remove cover for last few minutes to brown top if necessary.

The oil can be of course be omitted and canned tomatoes and corn be substituted for fresh.

NON-SKID HANGERS

To prevent dresses from slipping off hangers, wind elastic bands around the ends of the hangers. If hangers are of wood, put rubber-tipped tacks into each end.

NECKTIE HOLDER

Screw a small towel rack into the closet door or the back of the closet for a necktie holder. It makes an excellent one.

JACKETS OF LACE, VELVET FOR EVENING

Paris—(AP)—Cardigan jackets, driven out of the outdoor category more or less by the dressmakers' decision to put sport clothes in their place, have blossomed forth in the evening mode.

Of lace, velvet and sequin covered chiffon they have a recognized place in evening styles. Jet, gold and silver are the favorite versions, but apple green and sealing wax red are also worn extensively. For day wear, when motoring, or for use as a house jacket, sleeveless vests, tied in front and embroidered with gay wools and silks in the central European manner are being shown.

Sheer Velvet

IT'S SMART

It looks intricate but is as easy as can be. Design No. 3333 features all the new style tendencies—in one dress, a fitted bodice, uneven hemline and swathed skirt. You can't afford to be without it, fashioned of printed sheer velvet, chiffon in delicate coloring, satin crepe, printed handkerchief linen, flat silk crepe, canton-faille crepe, georgette crepe, crepe Elizabeth, wool crepe or plain sheer velvet. Designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measures, and only requires 3 3/4 yards of 40-inch material for the 36-inch size. Price, 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly. Every reader should send for a copy of our new Fashion Magazine because it contains all the most attractive styles for autumn in addition to six illustrated articles of great value to the women who sew, showing how any pattern may be altered and also the correct way to fit sleeves, finish slashes and other difficult steps in dressmaking. The edition is limited so send 10 cents for your copy today.

NEW YORK — Some sociables still linger at the seashore, apparently. For there were many familiar faces missing at the Belmont races and other sports events that have started the autumn season.

The first days back in town after the summer vacations grow less and less different from other days. For the wardrobe of the smart Social Registerite nowadays seems like that mythical pitcher that renewed its content when drained. With such smart shops at Newport, Southampton and other resorts and with more and more notable, spending a few weeks in Paris, it's no wonder that early autumn presents almost a fashion parade wherever well-known folks gather.

CHARMING LITTLE BLOUSE

Accessories seem to be the most fascinating feature in new costumes. The little blouses, for instance, are sweet enough to win their way into anyone's affection, not to mention one's wardrobe.

Mrs. John Fell wore such a smart new one with a navy blue suit, a little egg-shell satin, with the most unusual cut, a semimoulded effect, ending at the waistline with a tailored matching suede belt and buckle, with two little pockets suspended down over the skirt. Then it had her monogram in brilliant on a little tab of the suit's blue. The neckline was heart-shaped, bound in blue.

Incidentally, Mrs. Fell wore a very smart new hat-pin, one of the new jeweled kind—undoubtedly from Paris—called egg-shell enamel. It seems that they actually mix egg shells into gorgeously colored enamel while it is still soft and the result is a stunning texture, all crackled.

FURS LONG OR SHORT

Furs vary in length from chokers to the two-yard long variety. Fine soft little marten fashioned a choker that Mrs. Harold Sands wore, just long enough to fasten like a smart collar around her neck. Mrs. Sydney S. Whelan, who was walking with her, sponsored the life-like looking silver fox, head tails and everything.

There's rich color everywhere this autumn. At the Davis-Bouvier wedding, wines, tawny browns, ripe yellows, and dark creams were the outstanding features. The bride's party was gorgeous, the maid of honor in gold, the bridesmaids in tangerine.

Mrs. Hampton Lynch was one of the few who selected another shade, chartreuse green. She wore a mighty cute green hat of pliable metal cloth, in stunning turban style.

Oxfords are appearing on some of the "best" feet in Gotham. Oxfords, apparently, can be as light, as trim and as smart looking as strapped slippers. Mrs. W. G. Lord wore an extremely chic pair in the new borst shankskin, in a deep wine color, with a "little frock" of wine colored tweed.

Velvet touches are softening and tremendously chic, when welldone. Mrs. William Wright uses finely figured velvet in browns and tan for a dressy suit, with a tan blouse that has as its only adornment a cute little bit of the velvet.

LACE ADDS CHIC TOUCH

Lace is also a sweet touch this autumn. A little lace vestee proved very becoming in a lovely fall dress of beige, chocolate and caramel stripes that Mrs. Milton Holden appeared on the avenue in. A narrow collar emphasized the little dicker and then a handsome jeweled pin accented it.

Her frock made use of the goodie in a smart fashion—to end the wrap-around skirt. Godets seem on the up and up socially speaking. At the Ritz at tea time one sees the goodie introduced in fascinating variations—in the back, on one hip, in front and even in both back and front, with both dipping slightly from the side levels.

Failure Of Women Laid To Marriage

Women fail in business because they do not demand pay for equal work equally well performed, Miss L. E. Stearns, Milwaukee, told about 50 business and professional women of Appleton and Neenah Tuesday night at Appleton Women's club.

Marriage is an obstacle for the success of women in the business world, the speaker pointed out, for no sooner does a man have his stenographer trained to spell through, than she leaves to be married. The result is a man is hired. However, this fact, should not be allowed by women to lower their salary while they are employed.

Other reasons given which retard the progress of women in their careers is their failure to care for their health. The right kind of food, enough of it, plenty of sleep and a realization of the difference between work-creation and recreation were emphasized as essentials of the health training necessary for every working woman.

"You can bawl a man out and he takes it, but bawl a woman out and she bawls and bawls for weeks after-ward" was an answer received to a questionnaire sent to business firms recently, which was cited by Miss Stearns. Other answers given were "Men don't like to work under a woman and women don't like to take orders from other women," "too much time with compact," "women don't like to work over-time." The comment made by Miss Stearns was "It all depends on the woman." She also said, "Intellect has no sex; ability has no sex."

Before enumerating and commenting on some of the cause for failures among business women, the lecturer called the attention of the members to the advance made by women recently. The first edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica contained one line devoted to women, she said, and it was, "Woman, the female of man." In a recent edition of that encyclopedia one article on women alone contained 12,000 words.

The preservation of the American home as an institution is one reason why married women should not work, said Miss Stearns. She said she disliked seeing married women at work although she realized that housework has been reduced to a minimum and leaves much time to modern wives. However much of the civic and health work of the world must be done by unpaid workers and Miss Stearns indicated that there is plenty of this type of work for wives with nothing but time on their hands.

In this connection the part women should and do play in politics was discussed. Thirty three women are members of the German Reichstag and women in every part of Europe are active in civic welfare work. In her recent tour of Europe Miss Stearns had many opportunities to compare the work of European and American women and Tuesday night she urged the members of the local club to do their share in voting and working for peace.

An interesting and vivid picture of some of the noted men and women whom Miss Stearns met, on her trip abroad was given the members and concluded with an intimate description of George Bernard Shaw and his conversation at a reception given by Lady Astor and attended by Miss Stearns.

The great truth which the trip abroad taught Miss Stearns was that above nations there is humanity and above humanity there is God.

Miss Anna Tarr, head librarian at Carnegie library, introduced Miss Stearns and told the members of the club it was from Miss Stearns, a former librarian, that she had received much of her vision and enthusiasm for the library profession.

When Miss Stearns responded to the introduction she recalled her first appearance in Appleton 37 years ago at which time she spoke in behalf of a free public library. At another time Miss Stearns attended a meeting of the federation of women's clubs in Appleton and at that meeting she called the attention of the members to the daily reports given in the Appleton Crescent and wrote a letter to the editor of the paper commending the work of the young reporter. Later she discovered the reporter was Edna Ferber told her that the result of the letter was a raise from $3.50 a week to $5.00 and the gift of an umbrella.

PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stier, 128 S. Walnut-st., entertained Tuesday night at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Biseix of Philadelphia, who are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stier. Five tables of cards were in play. Mrs. Joseph Vandenberg and Mrs. Biseix won prizes at bridge and Anthony Schlatfer and Mrs. John Pulger prizes at schafkopf. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Biseix of Kaukauna, Miss Eleanor Biseix, Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of Neenah, and Mrs. John Pulger of Denver, Col. Mr. and Mrs. Biseix expect to return to their home on Saturday.

Miniature musical instruments were the favors given to guests of Beta Phi Alpha at its Nonsense Musical Tuesday evening at the home of C. O. Davis, 506 E. Atlantic-st. Miss Beatrice Miller gave a violin solo. About 30 guests attended the party.

A cottage party given at Schlafers cottage on Lake Winnebago was the rushing event of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. The party, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Earle, was held Tuesday afternoon. Chocolate cigarettes were given to the 25 guests as favors.

The Buttes des Morts Appleton country club was the scene of the Delta Gamma Motor party given for its rushers Tuesday afternoon. Twenty guests were entertained and small tennis racquets were given for favors. The party was arranged by Miss Mary Kreis.

HOLY CROSS ELEVEN SWAMPS PARK TEAM BY SCORE OF 60-0

Father Melchoir's Team Shows Superior Training Over Rivals

Kaukauna—About 300 persons and students watched the Rev. F. Melchoir's Holy Cross football team romp away with the Park school squad by a 60 to 0 score Tuesday afternoon at Holy Cross playground. The parochial team had the advantage of Father Melchoir's coaching and the teamwork, blocking, tackling and passing was something worth seeing.

The Holy Cross team has practically the same lineup as last year, when it created a sensation not only in this but in other cities in the Fox River valley. The team is neither large nor heavy, but the snap of the boys and the execution of plays has made it a winning aggregation. They beat teams from Appleton, Little Chute, Kimberly and Oshkosh last year. Games will be scheduled with those cities again this year.

On the second day of the game, William Kuckelmeyer, ran over 50 yards for the first touchdown. This was only a starter for the lead, and before the game was over he had crossed the opponent's goal five times. Francis Kuckelmeyer, mid-quarterback, also attracted much notice by his fieldwork and his fast manner in executing plays. This was the first game for both teams this year.

Jerome Hilgenberg, fullback for the Park schoolers, would have caused the parochials no little trouble if he had had a little support from his teammates. As it was, he usually gained about five yards every time he carried the ball. Sometimes he dragged as many as four opponents for a gain of a few yards.

John Reuter, other half back for the Holy Cross team, threw long passes that netted touchdowns. He also carried the ball in fine style. Lester Feggenlin played a good game at tackle for Holy Cross school.

Those who played on the Park school team were Robert Egan, Vanderhoof, Jerome Hilgenberg, Judson Judas, Francis Dreger, Robert Wurdinger, A. Wolf, Hallock, Robert Falk, M. Buzzard, William Check and Edward E. Wiley. Holy Cross players were William Kuckelmeyer, Francis Kuckelmeyer, V. Van Drayke, Lester Seggelink, J. Reuter, P. Seibers, A. Maul, T. Driesen, Norbert Promer, G. Block, Jack Esler, W. Manosky and G. Conlon.

Arrangements are being made for a game between the Holy Cross schoolers and the Kaukauna high school for Thursday afternoon.

NEW PASTOR OF M. E. CHURCH IS IN CITY

Kaukauna—The Rev. Roscoe Barnes, who has succeeded the Rev. T. Parker Ellmore as pastor of Brookway Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, moved to his home in this city at 116 Catherine-st Tuesday. He had charge of the services Sunday, and has assumed his other duties this week. Church members are planning a reception for him Friday evening. The committee in charge of the reception has not yet announced, but the Social Union will sponsor the affair.

The Rev. Barnes formerly was of Green Bay. The Rev. T. Parker Ellmore, former pastor of the local church, resigned after being appointed chaplain and field secretary of the Bellin hospital at Green Bay.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Deras. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Deras.

DEBATERS WILL DISCUSS MERITS OF CANDIDATES

Kaukauna—D. K. Carter and Stanford Clinton of Northwestern University will debate the question of whether Herbert Hoover or Alfred Smith should be elected to the presidency of the United States, at 8 o'clock Monday evening, Sept. 24, at Methodist Episcopal church.

The debate will be sponsored by the Social Union. Tickets may be purchased from members of the Union, of which Mrs. Olin G. Dryer is president. D. E. McFarland of the Speech Service was in Kaukauna Friday and completed arrangements for the debate, which was recently given in New London.

The Northwestern University Speech Service was organized to promote intelligent discussions on significant questions. Both debaters are men of much speaking experience.

EXPENSES EXCEED CITY RECEIPTS IN MONTH OF AUGUST

Report Shows Balance of $47,213.16 in Treasury According to Report

Kaukauna—Disbursements from the city treasury exceeded receipts during August by approximately $15,000, according to the monthly report of Joseph Dietzler, city treasurer.

Mr. Dietzler's report shows that disbursements were $47,357.49 while receipts were approximately $32,144.33. At the beginning of August there was a total of $59,639.06 in the treasury but at the end of the month after all bills had been paid there was but $47,213.16.

The largest single receipt reported by Mr. Dietzler was $27,238.48 from the municipal electrical department. Other receipts were as follows: paving of the south road district, $2,803.31; fines, $13; income tax $104.95. Other receipts were for sale of various licenses and other smaller miscellaneous matters.

The contingent fund was reduced from $11,250.62 at the beginning of the month to $5,609.47 at the end of the month. Receipts amounted to $331.44 and disbursements to $5,972.59.

The south road district fund is overdrawn $71,448.40. Receipts during the month amounted to $3,603.31 and the disbursements were $2,046.84. At the beginning of the month the fund was overdrawn $79,044.37.

The north road district fund was also overdrawn. At the beginning of September the fund was overdrawn $5,788.53 and at the beginning of August it was overdrawn $5,125.79. Receipts amounted to $43.84 and disbursements to $706.58.

There is a balance of $3,487.61 at the beginning of September and a balance in the north district sewer fund and a balance of $4,755.88 in the south road district.

Disbursements of the poor fund were $461.45 and receipts amounted to $50. Cash on hand at the beginning of Sept. was $1,303.37.

The electric light fund was reduced during the month from $23,389.92 to $20,558.58. Receipts amounted to $27,238.48 and the disbursements were $30,119.42.

Receipts swelled the balance of $15,283.20 in the water works fund to $15,678.60. However, the disbursements were $2,265.59 which reduced the total to $13,412.71.

The high school fund was decreased from $52,453.34 to $48,502.47. The receipts only amounted to $117.50 and the disbursements totaled $4,065.67. During July the fund was increased by about $1,000.

MAY CHOOSE VALLEY SOFTBALL CHAMPIONS

Hold Meeting Here to Plan Series of Matches to Decide Best Nine

Kaukauna—Representatives of the north district of the Fox River valley will meet at the Y. M. C. RACKETEERS' TORCH MURDERS FAMILY AS WAR HITS CLEVELAND

Six Persons Sacrificed While Garage in Which They Slept Was Burned

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth of a series of articles on racketeering by James P. Kirby, tells the story of Cleveland. Tomorrow, Kirby will tell of conditions in Philadelphia.)

BY JAMES P. KIRBY
Cleveland, O.—A family of six, including four children, were sacrificed by the torch of racketeers when the garage, over which the family slept, was burned to the ground here last fall.

This was the worst fatality recorded in the long list of outrages which mark the trail of racketeers affecting the dry cleaning, undertaking, kosher butchers, teamsters, credit jewelers and other lines of business and through which appear the names and faces of well known Chicago operators.

PICK WRONG PLACE
The burning of the family is directly attributed by F. J. Hawkins, who operates a moving and hauling business on the East Side, to the fact that racketeers attempted to discipline him for his refusal to pay tribute to the racket, intended to set fire to his garage and made the mistake of selecting a garage adjoining his establishment.

He explains that about a week before the fire, he was approached by certain "organizers" who invited him for the last time to "join" an organization of which they were the promoters and to which he said he was expected to contribute for the safety of his equipment.

The operations of racketeers in Cleveland came to light during the early summer in a political campaign over the office of county prosecutor. An independent candidate for the Republican nomination, who was defeated by the Cleveland Bar Association and defeated by the organization candidate made the charge during the campaign that racketeers had been getting protection and with the election of his opponent, would continue to be protected.

While the charge was made in the heat of a political battle, which was the hottest in Cuyahoga county in many years, the allegation of racketeers was immediately taken up by the newspapers and the police.

The American Plan Association then produced a series of affidavits from individuals in the dry cleaning, kosher butchers and other similar lines of business to show that racketeers, well identified with the movement in Chicago, had been busy in Cleveland and that fear of reprisals on the part of their victims had kept the latter silent.

A special grand jury investigation was launched early in the summer but there was no indictment and there appears to be little likelihood of any in the near future.

However, Cleveland possesses a robust and vigorous safety director in the person of Edwin D. Barry.

Barry's reaction to the suggestion of racketeering in Cleveland was characteristic. He forthwith sent for Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody and Captain Emmett Potts.

"Run them out of town," he ordered, and forthwith detectives scoured the city and rounded up well known characters whose means of livelihood was the subject of conjecture. There was a scurrying for cover and a hasty exodus of conspicuous characters.

"We'll detail policemen and detectives to accompany them day and night and give them no peace," Barry said, and his officers immediately set out to carry out his orders.

STILL SMOLDERS
Although the racket appears to have become quiescent, it is smoldering in such lines as the dry cleaning, in which the familiar Chicago method of operation, an occasional sten-bomb, a truck set afire, an occasional dynamiting, indicate that while the racketeers are fearful of Barry's threat, they have not quit business.

Small tailor shops, kosher butchers, dry cleaning and similar establishments are continually feeling the presence of the racketeers whose work is now covert and fairly well concealed.

The death of an aged woman who was choked by gangsters when she refused to accede to their demands for money, late this summer, was declared by Inspector Cody to be the work of a racketeer mob.

But the racket here is also where appear to furnish the basis of recruiting operators for other rackets and despite the effectiveness with which Barry's police curb gambling, the booze racket thrives and leaves in its wake a long list of gang murders.

RULERS KILLED
In the period since January, 1927, have been thirteen murders of well-known underworld characters, including Big Joe and John Leonardo and Lawrence Lupo, recognized rulers in the liquor traffic, and not only not a conviction but not even an arrest.

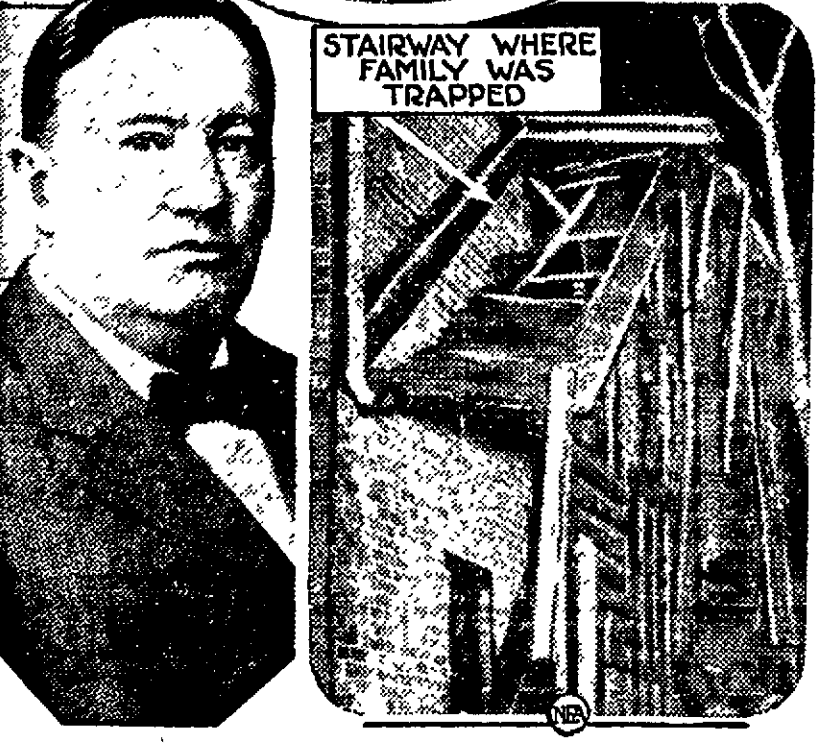

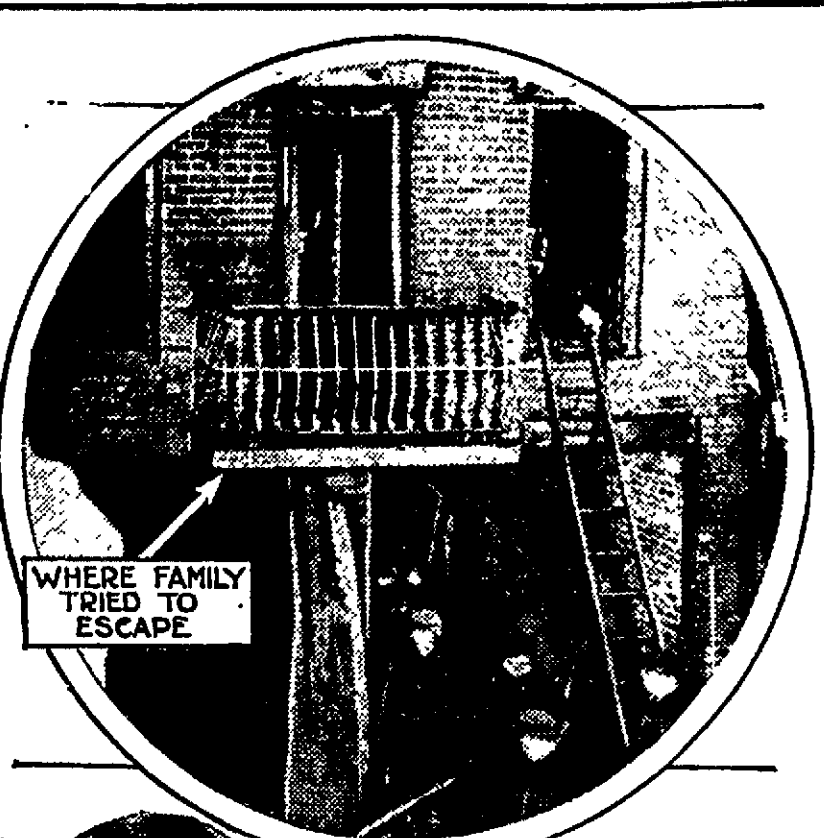

The Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice, a volunteer organization similar to those of Chicago and Baltimore, is an effective means of keeping the public informed of the conditions within the administration of justice and in stimulating public officials who appear to weaken.

However, the Cleveland situation compared with those of Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis, appears to be infinitely better than those cities.

SLEEPING SICKNESS REMAINS BAFFLING

After Ten Years of Research Health Authorities Are Still at Sea

Washington —(AP)—Lethargic encephalitis, the "sleeping sickness" of Europe and America remains a baffling problem to science after 10 years of research in sickroom, clinic and laboratory.

Sufficient progress has been made, however, to encourage United States public health service authorities in the belief that the studies being conducted by their own and other scientific groups eventually will yield the fundamental facts regarding its cause and spread.

The first step in the investigation was a study of actual cases in different sections. This has been followed by continuous attention to such cases and extensive studies. The opinion seems general among scientific workers that the disease is caused by some kind of germ which has eluded identification.

Whether this germ is the product of evolution among germs associated with influenza, or is merely an organism which did not become sufficiently virulent to attract attention until after the 1918 influenza, is undetermined. The disease was not recognized until after that epidemic, and the evidence accumulated indicates that it is closely identified with influenza.

A different situation exists with respect to the sleeping sickness which takes thousands of lives annually in southern Africa. It persists only where the tsetse fly thrives along water courses, and its cause has been traced to a parasite which lives in that insect and is deposited in human victims when the creature stings them.

Having advanced that far in knowledge of the American disease, which has been recognized for 200 years or longer, considerable hope is entertained for the success of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation's expedition to the Belgian Congo. That expedition is under the direction of Dr. Warren K. Stratman-Thomas, 28-year-old pharmacologist of the University of Wisconsin, who sailed from New York recently with the hope of proving that a cure for the disease had been found.

He carried with him six new arsenical compounds developed under the direction of Dr. A. S. Loevenhart, professor of pharmacology at the University of Wisconsin.

UNDERTAKE STUDY OF COMMON COLD AT JOHNS HOPKINS

Report Considerable Progress in Research of This Widespread Ailment

Baltimore — (AP) — Although the common cold is less prevalent at this season than in the fall and winter, considerable progress is being made by the Johns Hopkins committee which is administering the John J. Abel Fund for Research on this most widespread disease.

The fund was established only a few months ago by the Chemical Foundation of New York, with an appropriation of $195,000 for a five-year study of the cause, nature and possible cure of colds, and the summer is being utilized chiefly to build up the research organization in preparation for intensive investigation when the next school year begins.

It has already been observed, however, that just after an individual has had a cold those nasal ferments which act like digestive secretions in overcoming and breaking down animal material entering the system at this point seem unable to neutralize infections associated with infantile paralysis. To expedite the solution of the question thus raised, the committee already has encouraged Dr. Leopold Michaelis, physical chemist and resident lecturer in the School of Medicine, to investigate this phase of the general problem.

Dr. Nathan. Herman, physician in charge of the care of Johns Hopkins students, is preparing to increase the scope of a systematic investigation of actual colds which began soon after the fund was established. With the aid of 50 student volunteers, who agreed to submit to daily nose and throat examinations, he undertook to find out just what clinical details a cold presents from start to finish, a question for which science has not yet an answer. The cooperation of a number of women employees of the Maryland Casualty Company has since been obtained, and he hopes to build up a more definite clinical definition of the various interrelated sets of symptoms which are grouped more or less loosely under the "common cold" designation.

BERMUDA TO BUILD BIG TOURIST HOTEL

Hamilton, Bermuda — (AP) — The Princess Hotel Company have announced that work will begin in May, 1929, on a $2,000,000 structure to replace the present Princess Hotel, which has been in operation for approximately forty years. Whitaker & Company of Manchester, N. H., are the architects. The building will be of Bermuda coral stone and will follow the Bermudian architecture.

"THE FOREIGN LEGION"
The most spectacular and powerful drama in many months is playing at Fischer's Appleton Theatre today and Thursday. It is "The Foreign Legion," co-starring Norman Kerry and Lewis Stone, supported by beautiful Mary Nolan and June Marlow. This is without a doubt one of the finest pictures of the year and should rate high when the selection of the year's greatest pictures is made. It is sheer drama, of romance and revolt, relieved with comedy masterfully placed at just the right spots. It cannot hurt your enjoyment by being told that the story revolves around the powerful situation of a son and his father opposed to each other, neither knowing who the other is.

The action takes place in the colorful locale of Algiers and is featured by sensational photographic beauty. On the dramatic side, highlights are the troops and the mutiny in the desert led by Kerry unknowingly against his father, the commanding officer. They also are pitted for the smiles of Mary Nolan, blonde and dangerous. Another powerful sequence is where the father is preceding judge at his son's trial.

Stone and Kerry give powerful characterizations. Mary Nolan is equally strong in her role and photographs beautifully. She brings a new type to the screen—the blonde whose kiss is disaster. The comedy is largely supplied by Walter Perry who does well, while the romantic interest is furnished with sympathy, by June Marlow. Crawford Kent is splendid in an unsympathetic role.

Edward Sloman, director, deserves the highest praise for turning out one of the finest pictures of the year.

PHONE OFFICE GETS TELEGRAPH MACHINE
A new combination sending and receiving telegraph machine is being installed in the stenographic room of the local Wisconsin Telephone company office. The machine is operated by electricity and messages are conveyed across telephone wires. Communications received are recorded on paper by means of a typewriter which is controlled and regulated by perforated paper. When messages are sent out of the local office a narrow ribbon of paper records the message at the office of origin and the receiving point.

KIM-LITTLE CHUTE MEETS TWO RIVERS IN TITLE SERIES

Games Will Decide State Championship In Semi-Pro Leagues

First Game Saturday at Two Rivers, Second Sunday at Little Chute

Kimberly—The baseball game between the Kimberly-Little Chute entry in the Fox River valley league and the Koscusko Reds slated for Milwaukee next Sunday has been called off, according to Manager Marty Lamers and a two game series arranged with Two Rivers, state league champions. Instead, the first game of the series will be played Saturday afternoon at Two Rivers and hostilities then will move to Little Chute Sunday. In case of a tie, the date and place of the final game will be decided later.

As Kimberly-Little Chute won the pennant in the local league and the Two Rivers team copped the flag in the state league the two games will be for the state semi-pro championship.

Eddie Kotal, Kimberly shortstop who has transferred his athletic capers to the city stadium at Green Bay as a member of the Packers football team will be missing from the Papermaker's lineup. However, Manager Lamers has succeeded in digging up Joe Muench of Menasha to fill in the gap and chances are Muench will make the folks almost forget Kotal.

Special seating facilities will be arranged for the fracas at Little Chute Sunday and two of the best umpires in the state will handle the game.

Besides being a ball game for the championship of the state, the games should be a veritable reunion of old state league players of about four years back. The Two Rivers lineup boasts Doc Delmore who caught for Appleton and Menasha at one time, Piggy Warden, the big boy with a stock yard vocabulary and a chew of cut plug, handy, also a former Menasha catcher and Zeinski, who ranked one of the best third sackers in semi pro circles. Ty Lober who caved in the garden for the Milwaukee Brewers years ago also is a member of the Two Rivers team.

The only players of the old state league Appleton team are Boots and Marty Lamers and Len Smith.

DALE SECOND TEAM SAYS FIRST SQUAD NOT QUITE SO GOOD

Dale—A feud has broken out on the local baseball squad with the result that the first and second teams are having a battle royal as to which is the stronger. Last Sunday the two hooked up in a battle which ended 7 to 6 in favor of the first squad. The substitutes now are chafing for a second game to be played on the 60-40 basis as far as the gate is concerned. So far the first stringers haven't taken up the challenge and as a result the second squad boys are saying terrible things about the others.

Merence of Kaukauna tossed for the first squad last week while Kuehl, Dale, and Murphy, Appleton, led the receiving. The latter caught four innings and fanned once while the plate much to the enjoyment of second team supporters. Batteries for the second team were W. Link and O. Hawk. The second team is composed of all home players, the first team having four outsiders.

BERNICE WALL, HAGEN WIN EASTERN MATCH

Rye, N. Y. —(P)—Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, and Walter Hagen, British Open champion, teamed up to defeat Glenn, Collett and Alex Smith by five points in a best ball and aggregate golf match at the Westchester-Biltmore country club course here Tuesday. Hagen equalled par for the course equalled par for the course with a fine 70, four strokes under Smith, the club pro. Miss Collett turned in a medal score of 78 and Miss Wall a 73. The women were getting in some practice for the National women's championship at Hot Springs, Va., next week.

YANKEES WIN AND MACKS LOSE; NOW 2 GAMES FROM TOP

Cardinals Make It Five in a Row With Win Over Phillies, 4-2

Connie Mack's pennant hopes appear about ready to take wing, fly away and return only when another baseball season rolls around.

Connie's hopes along with his Philadelphia Athletics ran full tilt into disaster Tuesday at Cleveland where the Indians rose out of the ruck of an eleven-game losing streak to smack the Athletics for a 3 to 2 loss.

Meanwhile the New York Yankees staggered in drunken fashion to a 14 to 11 victory over the St. Louis Browns. This left the Yanks holding a two game lead with only eleven games yet to play, one more than the Mackmen.

Rube Walberg was the victim of Cleveland's triumph.

Everybody but the police reserves were called into action before the Yankees finally beat the Browns. St. Louis fans were given a chance to see Miller Huggins' four regular pitchers in action in one and the same game. Helms, Johnson, Pippas and Hoyt followed each other to the mound in more or less rapid succession of the Yankees who played the whole game only George Herman Ruth failed to hit safely.

In the only other American league battle, Phil Page, pitched Detroit to an 8 to 5 victory over the Washington Senators.

The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals made it five in a row over the Phillies 4 to 2, and closed the season's series with the Quakers with 20 victories and only two defeats.

Bill Terry's home run in the tenth gave the New York Giants the edge over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 2. The victory enabled the Giants to split even in the 22 games with the Pirates and remain two games distant from the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs held fast to their position a game and a half from the Giants by beating Boston, 8 to 3.

Cincinnati had little trouble bowling over the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 2, to make the season's count 12 to 10 in their favor.

FRANKFORD CLUB TO PLAY PACKERS

Game One of First Inter-sectional Pro Clashes This Year

Green Bay —The Frankford Yellowjackets, one of the greatest eleven in the National Football league will play the Packers here Sunday. This is the first time in pro gridiron history that the Quaker state Hornets have ever appeared in Wisconsin.

The Yellowjackets have a great organization. Like the Packers it is a community back football machine. Frankford is a suburb of Philadelphia and the natives there take their football pretty seriously.

The Packers have played in Frankford on the last three Thanksgiving days. In 1925 and '26, the Hornets were successful but in 1927 the Big Bay Blues came from behind to score a 17 to 9 victory.

The Frankford management goes the limit to round up all-American college players and this year's eleven has a half dozen "rah-rah" products who have frequently broken into the big newspaper headlines.

Well, one of the greatest tackles that Nebraska has ever turned out, is running the "Jackets" this year and he has a sweet machine in the making. One of his recent additions is Hanson, the Minnesota all-Western forward who raised havoc with every team that the Gophers played in two years.

The Frankford club will travel west in due style. They are making the trip in a special car which will be routed through city. The Quakers are scheduled to reach Green Bay Saturday afternoon in time to take a workout at the City stadium. There will be 36 in the party, including several Philadelphia newspapermen who are coming here to cover the game, which is the first inter-sectional gridiron fracas of the 1928 season.

PLAN VALLEY SOFTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH

A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will meet with playground baseball champions from Appleton, Kimberly, Kaukauna, and Green Bay at Kaukauna this week to arrange for a Fox river valley softball tournament to determine the valley championship team. Another meeting for teams south of Appleton will be held at Oshkosh this week, according to Mr. Jensen.

The meeting will be held for Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha. The Cardinals, local softball champions, will enter the tournament, according to Mr. Jensen.

MAKE OLD BATTLEFIELD INTO A GOLF COURSE

Petersburg, Va. —(P)—The celebrated Crater Battlefield a Civil War creation, has been turned into a golf course.

The various holes on the course are named in honor of Confederate and Federal officers. The complaint had to be one of the best in Virginia.

MONKEY BUSINESS

London—Kingston-on-Thames justice heard a tale of woe by a distraught husband recently and promised relief. The complaint had to do with a neighbor's pet monkey which had got into the habit of entering complainant's home where it "damaged furniture, helped itself to food and upset the wife's nerves terribly."

When Sande Booted the Last One In

"I want to thank you and congratulate you for your manly and honorable connection with the turf as a jockey. You never have done anything that has brought discredit on a noble sport."

With this citation from Joseph Widener, president of the Westchester Racing Association, and the cheers of thousands ringing in his ears, Earl Sande picked up his little saddle and walked into retirement. One of the greatest jockeys that ever sat in a saddle, Sande felt his health imperiled by the obligation of making weight and retired from the riding profession to become the owner and trainer of his own new stable. He wanted to close his career with a victory, but the great Reigh Count prevented him from achieving this honor by beating his mount, Chance Shot, in his last race. In all his career, no ride that Sande ever made was ever attended with any kind of suspicion. Those who bet knew always that any horse with Sande up being ridden to win

And he won more purse money than any other jockey. On the left of the accompanying photographs Sande is shown resting between races on his last day as a jockey. In the upper center he is shown taking the cheers from his fellow jockeys, and below he is shown winning on Osmond. On the right the great little jockey is shown in a new set of "civvies," which will be his uniform in the future.

RIPON HAS BEST TEAM IN YEARS

DOEHLING SAYS

Crimson Coach Is Optimistic About Outlook; Meet Chicago, Iowa

Ripon —(P)—Carl Doehling, athletic director at Ripon college, is no exception to the rule that football coaches are a gloomy lot. But he became positively reckless today.

He announced that his 1928 eleven is the best he has had during the five seasons at Ripon and that it will furthermore, give its first opponent, the University of Chicago, something of a game Sept. 29.

Led by Capt. Fred Hein, former Bay View high school star, the Ripon Redmen are bolstered by "Red" Martin, Minneapolis, Doehling's veteran quarterback who won berths on both Wisconsin-Illinois and Mid-west conference mythical eleven last year; Heinz, Fort Atkinson, veteran punter; Williams, Wauwatosa, captain-elect of the 1929 basketball team, end; Pine, Kenosha, tackle; Freeman, Spring Valley, Minn., all-city quarterback; Antross, Milwaukee, guard; Richardson, South Milwaukee, tackle; Halverson, Madison, last year's basketball captain, half; Arno Bahrs, Rice Lake, former captain and full back; Rehl, Minneapolis, fullback, and Smith, Ft. Atkinson, end.

Murphy, flashy half of the 1927 eleven, may be available for varsity competition while Cunningham, Minneapolis, end, and Keeler, Milwaukee, tackle, on Coach Butler's 1927 freshman eleven, are expected to report this week.

The presence of Coach Doehling today, who did not welcome the advance guard last week, because of death in his family, served to stimulate the team, whose members blacked, passed, kicked and tackled to his satisfaction. Concentrated dummy tackling was supervised by Assistant Coach Russell Rippe.

The schedule, which opens at Chicago, is the most ambitious in Ripon's history. Other opponents include the University of Iowa, Northwestern college, Beloit, Carroll and Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Ia.

ELK BOWLING LEADERS MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Tentative leaders of Elk bowling teams will meet at the club at 7:30 Wednesday evening to complete plans for opening of the Elk league next week. Teams have been organized and only the finishing touches to the schedule and names for team remains before opening of the season. Names of permanent captains also will be announced after the meeting Wednesday.

STAGG FIELD SEATING FACILITIES INCREASED

Chicago —(P)—Stagg Field will have seating accommodations for 60,000 when the University of Chicago football season opens Sept. 29, with the Maroons meeting South Carolina.

The new steel stands, built last year to replace old wooden bleachers, were not completed until after the close of the 1927 season.

EASTERN SCHOOLS TO PUT LIGHTS ON GRID

Emory, Va. —(P)—Emory and Henry College has ordered lights installed on its football field and will play four contests after dark. William and Mary inaugurated the nocturnal game in Virginia last season and will continue the practice this season. Several other southern colleges also will play night games.

VALLEY VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT IS PLANNED

Tentative plans for a Fox river valley volleyball tournament are being arranged in several valley cities, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director. It is expected that the regular men's volleyball team at the local association will be among those competing. Teams will probably be organized at the Green Bay association, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac, Y. M. C. A., Neenah, and Lawrence college.

LI RICE—Legion Hall, Little Chute—Thurs.

Around The Sport World

FIRST HUNDRED HARDEST
Walter Hagen, the eminent author and gold strategist, has detected a weakness in the game of Bob Jones. "Jones doesn't like eighteen-hole matches apparently," Hagen said during the amateur championship tournament.

"He has the right idea that the longer a match goes the more class tells."

OUT IN FRONT, MAYBE
Ducky Yates, a 280-pound golfer, who knocked off George Von Elm in the first round of the amateur championship tournament, didn't feel so big when he looked at the draw.

He saw that he had been tossed into a match with Von Elm and his opponent had been selected by the critics as one of the two or three big shots who might meet Bob Jones in the final.

"I'm out right now," Big Yates said when he saw the draw, but he went out and blasted Von Elm out of the tournament.

When he came in from his losing round, Von Elm offered a very logical ally for his defeat.

"I took too many strokes," he told the scribes.

ZWICK ON GROUND FOR FRIDAY FIGHT

Joe Azzarella and Irvin Berndt Carded in Prelim Bout

Milwaukee — With Pete Nebo, Seminola Indian from the Everglades of Florida and Phil Zwick, the Kaukauna slugger, on the ground, interest in their battle Friday night at the Milwaukee auditorium increases.

Zwick has been having a good rest the past summer and is stronger than ever. He has also been doing plenty of boxing so that he will be better prepared to meet the hard hitting Nebo than heretofore. It means much right now to Zwick, for if he can hold his own or better, he will be a shot at Bud Taylor again and also Joey Sangor or Zorilla.

Indian Nebo looks the typical fighter and judging from his splendid record in the east he has not been overrated in any way. He is a star of the first water and is being mentioned now in the east as the man to fight Tony Canzoneri for the title instead of Benny Bass. Nebo is accompanied by his manager—Clonie Tait—a former lightweight of merit.

Louis New, the Polish Terrier from Milwaukee's south side, will have a fairly general idea as to Friday night just what he is destined to accomplish in the boxing world. New, Friday night faces tough opposition in a six round boxing contest on the card. He is paired with Faddy Walther, hard punching Chicago Italian.

Joe Azzarella and Irvin Berndt, both of Milwaukee, meet in a promising six round contest Friday night. Azzarella and Berndt are down for a four and Tony Grayjack, Milwaukee, meets Mike Marcellis of Buffalo at the same distance.

BREWS AND MILLERS IN CRUCIAL SERIES

Kelley's Gang Has Chance at Pennant if They Bump Milwaukee

Chicago —(P)—Whether Mike Kelley and his Minneapolis Millers succeed in passing the Indianapolis Indians in the stretch of the American association pennant race depends very much on what the Milwaukee Brewers do.

Going into the stretch the Indians lead the Millers by one full game and have everything to their advantage in the remaining five days of the schedule. While Kelley is sending his team against the Brewers sixtimes in five days on the Milwaukee grounds Indianapolis will be at home with six games in five days with Toledo.

The Millers kept pace with the Indians when they won a 11-inning pitchers duel from the Kansas City Blues 3 to 1.

Columbus practically assured itself of seventh place when the Senators took both ends of a double header from Louisville 8 to 3 and 9 to 2.

The Indians wound up their series at Toledo by winning 2 to 1.

KIMBERLY MEN IN ATHLETIC CONTEST

Single and Married Athletes Staging Annual Championship Feud

Kimberly—The married and single men's annual fall athletic championship series got underway here Monday and at the present time the single men are leading with a score of 27 points.

There are three games of hardball and three games of softball to be played each game to count nine points for the team winning. So far the single men have won two softball games by scores of 4 to 2 and 11 to 0 and also a hard ball game by the score of 7 to 3, giving them 27 points.

On Friday noon eight men from each side will pitch horseshoe and all points won shall count for the side winning. The married men are depending on their horseshoe ability to clinch the series even though they should lose all the ball games.

The balance of the schedule is as follows: Wednesday noon, softball; Wednesday afternoon, baseball; Thursday afternoon, baseball; Friday noon, horseshoe.

Each side is allowed but 12 men, these 12 to play softball, baseball and horseshoe. Contestants for the married men are Joe Sandhofer, manager; Jack Van Egan, Al Briggs, El W. Krueger, C. C. Smith, C. Bourassa, Paul Modersohn, William Courchane, Curly Lang, Mike Juddkins, B. Spaay and C. Van Dinter; for the single men Dud Courchane, C. C. Lande, W. Zartman, A. Malcolm, E. Koll, Joe Gossena, Charles and John Van Haelst.

PLAN REVISION OF POWER STANDARDS

Would Establish Uniform System of Measuring Electrical Units

Washington—(AP)—Revision of international standards for uniform measurement of electrical units, to bring them into line with modern scientific knowledge, is being considered by the advisory committee on electricity of the permanent International Committee on Weights and Measures.

Since the uniform international standards now in force were legally established 20 years ago, electrical practice and research have disclosed discrepancies amounting to as much as one-twentieth of one per cent between those measurements and the fundamental ohm and volt, which, with the ampere and other related units, they were intended to represent.

Considerable importance is attached to the statutory establishment and maintenance of the more exact standards now possible, in view of the international trade in electrical machinery and to a lesser extent, in power, which is vitally affected by the units of measurement written into the laws of the various nations.

The Paris meeting will be one of a series of steps necessary to bring about improvement in the agreements among the nations concerned on which the statutory standards are based. Negotiations for the meeting are now being conducted by Director George K. Burgess of the United States Bureau of standards and other members of the committee, who include representatives of similar national laboratories in Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Japan, together with Director Guillaume of the International Bureau of Weights and Measures and Prof. L. Lombardi of Rome.

The function of the advisory committee includes the working out of a new basis for the international units. It was created by the seventh general conference on weights and measures in 1877, with instructions to make a report by March 1, 1929, show sufficient agreement to make and the Paris meeting is expected to possible such a series of recommendations.

KING BORIS USUALLY AGAINST DEATH VERDICT

Sofia—(AP)—In the central prison of Sofia, forty-three prisoners, condemned to death, are pinning their faith to the repugnance of King Boris toward capital punishment, for commutation of their sentences.

In all probability, King Boris will before long exercise the right given him under the constitution of Bulgaria to commute the sentences to life imprisonment.

Among them, Froukhine, former prefect of police under the agrarian government of Stamboulliski, who was slated for execution several years ago for having organized an attempt on the lives of members of the opposition while they were holding a meeting in a cinema house, which claimed many victims.

King Boris shows a great reluctance to sign death warrants, and since no executions can take place without his approval, he thereby exercises an indirect veto on capital punishment in this country.

Gave Bobby a Fight

"I'm really glad you won, Bobby," Ray Gorton (right) is saying to Bobby Jones here. Jones had just eliminated Gorton from the national amateur golf championship at West Newton, Mass. But Gorton forced Bobby to his first extra hole match since 1916.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

WEGRAW and Hornsby told Landis it was an outrage that careless persons made free use of their names. In every interesting race track story, "Tip" Perkins, the British amateur golf champion, drives with his foot in the bucket. As Al Simmons bats, Howard Ehmke, the A's pitcher, still sells rubber sheets. To cover baseball and football fields. And makes a lot of dough out of it. Joe Kirkwood appeared on the course at the amateur championship tournament wearing a contestant's badge. But he didn't play. It was way to see the doing for nothing. The Toledo demanded an exhibition game of the great ones as part payment when they sent Rosy Ryan to the Yanks. And got it. Harold Hamm, one of Dartmouth's football stars, was struck by lightning at a summer camp and killed. And his "22" number never will be used again.

BELIEVE QUININE MAY STOP FADING OF ART OBJECTS

Chemists Conducting Tests to Determine Means of Protecting Paintings

Upper Saranac Lake, N. Y.—(AP)—Ultraviolet rays of light cause fading of paintings, and quinine is under test as one of the possible means of protection.

These are among the facts brought before the International Illumination Congress, in a paper on "Protection of Pictures and Museum Pieces from Fading," by two British delegates, J. A. MacIntyre and H. Buckley, of His Majesty's Office of Works and National Physical Laboratory.

Water colors and dyed textile goods are noted as typical art objects subject to fading. Light of every color causes fading under certain conditions, but "in the majority of cases the violet and ultraviolet are the most destructive." The paper describes methods of eliminating the harmful rays through use of glass which is tinted, but which seems to the spectator to transmit ordinary daylight, and also with glass which is mostly opaque to the destructive rays, though transmitting the other light. The experiment on quinine films and colorless varnish, among others, was suggested by the fact that visitors in high Alps were using this drug in a face cream to protect them from the sun.

Another suggestion in the paper is use of a selenium cell to actuate a relay circuit and ring a series of bells in galleries and museums whenever the daylight becomes too bright. This would be applied in institutions which use protecting window blinds against the outside glare.

Artificial lights selected to omit harmful rays and yet light the art objects sufficiently are another means of protection.

PARIS DIGS DOWN TO AVOID SKYSCRAPERS

Paris—(AP)—Skyscrapers in America may continue to reach for the clouds, but modern Paris relieves congestion by building down into the ground.

A network of underground passages for cars, pedestrians and small freight has been proposed by one of the Paris city officials. The project includes the construction of ten miles of tunnels, moving sidewalks and moving freight carriers.

Engineers see no difficulty, but the cost would average $2,000,000 per mile. All construction would have to be done below the level of the subway which form a spider's web just below the city's surface.

BINISH REPORTS TO THISTLETHWAITE

Former Green Bay High School Star Has Hurdled Scholastic Barrier

Madison—All doubt of the loss of the veteran tackle, Stan Binish of Green Bay, was cleared this week when the husky forward reported to head coach Glenn Thistlethwaite of the Badgers for work. Binish donned his grid togs on Monday and fell in with Tom Lieb's crew of line candidates.

Mike Welch, an end of two seasons' experience, is now the only letterman to make his appearance. The La Crosse wing is still trying to hurdle the scholastic barrier which to date has made him ineligible for varsity competition.

With a dozen or more late arrivals receiving their equipment early this week, the Badger squad now totals 90 men. Eight full eleven have been working daily on the new plays handed out by Thistlethwaite at the morning chalk talks. The boys continue to thrive on the double practices diet.

Things have been moving along so rapidly in the camp of the Wisconsin gridgers that the regular assemblage of "railbirds" hope for some scrimmage toward the end of this week. As yet Thistlethwaite has made no announcement of this, but some rough work should be ordered about Friday or Saturday.

The search for a quarterback to replace ex-Capt. Crofoot is commanding much attention in the early workouts. Crofoot handled the field general post for three seasons and it will not be an easy matter to fill his shoes. Neil Hayes, halfback last year, was used some at quarter when Crofoot was not in the line-up.

He is being tried at this important position now and has looked good thus far. Little "Bo" Cuisinier may also get a chance at quarter, while the two sophomores, Sam Behr and Bobby Obendorfer, afford the new material.

STUDY ADJUSTMENT TO LIVING CONDITIONS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Problems of nationalities and their adjustment to American living promises to be one of the most interesting of the discussions at the biennial conference on Civic and Social Problems to be held here Oct. 3 to 6, according to Aubrey Williams, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

Miss Ethel Bird, head of the department of immigration and foreign communities of the national Y. W. C. A. board, will lead the session devoted to this subject. There will be addresses on America, A Nation of Transplanted People; Immigration, Philosophy and Practice, during which will be discussed Our Present Immigration Law, and America Changing Attitudes.

Others who will take part in the program are Miss Edna Merrill and Mrs. Elizabeth B. McCready, of the International Institute of the Y. W. C. A., Milwaukee; Miss Ethel Brumaker, of the Wisconsin Industrial School for Girls; Miss Eva F. Case; Miss Cora G. Ripstein, and Miss Lucina G. Irish, of the Travelers Aid Society; Miss Miriam Tompkins, of the Milwaukee Public Library Department of Adult Education; Miss Antonette Czarowski, of the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau; Miss Laura E. Dixon of the Milwaukee Calvary Community House; Miss Isabel M. ELK LADIES ORGANIZE BOWLING TEAMS TUESDAY

Plans for a ten team league to be known at the Elk Ladies Bowling league were made at a meeting Wednesday evening at the Elk club. Ellen Dunn was elected president, Mary Bestler, vice president, Della Schmitt, secretary and Mrs. George Dame, treasurer.

The league teams will bowl at 7 o'clock Tuesday evenings on the Elk alleys, the season to open next week. Handicap rules again will govern bowling. Members of the various teams were appointed Tuesday evening but the squads will not be named until next week.

TWO LEGAL HOLIDAYS TAKEN FROM CALENDAR

That the birthday of Washington and Lincoln are no longer legal holidays, and that school will be held on those days, was announced at the fifth and sixth grade teachers meeting held at Lincoln school Monday afternoon.

A committee was selected to complete the Geography outline started last year. Mrs. Lella Mortimer is general chairman, with Misses Selma Mallman, Mary Grady, Agnes Jolin, Florence Rademacher, and Mrs. Selma Abendroth assisting her. The committee selected to outline a supplementary reading program includes Misses Magdalen Kohl and Lila Gregor, chairmen; Elsie Christensen, Josephine Sexton, Mrs. Mabel Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Rouse and Mrs. Margaret St. Clair.

The teachers were urged to be conscientious about the morning physical examination, as a means of heading off contagion, and they were given a list of 23 timesaving points.

"LOVE FOR TWO"

by Ruth Dewey Groves
1928 By N. E. A. Service, Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD marries ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. The only shadow on the bride's happiness is Lila's persistence in broadcasting to their friends that she was Rod's first love.

A position in New York is offered Rod by TOM FRASER and he accepts. Anxious to make a good impression, they go to an expensive hotel until they can find an apartment. MOLLY FRASER embarrasses Bertie Lou by urging her to buy more than she can afford.

Rod wins some money from Tom at poker and feeling under obligation to them, recklessly invites the crowd to a night club. Lila arrives to visit Molly and goes to the party where she meets a rich Mr. LOREE. Lila surprises them by marrying Mr. Loree and she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the past and be friends. She showers favors upon them with such sincerity that Bertie Lou is deceived. But keeping up appearances with their crowd is a severe strain on Rod's finances. He becomes discouraged and Lila grasps her chance to force sympathy upon him. She persuades him to accept work for Loree at a much higher salary than he was getting with Fraser. She also induces Bertie Lou to sublet their small apartment to live in more luxurious quarters.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII

A month, with Lila, was time for anything. The constant drip of her cleverly phrased words had worn away Bertie Lou's memory of the recent struggle which she and Rod had experienced in order to keep their heads above the waters that threatened to engulf them.

The future looked alluringly bright as Lila painted it. No need to stint. "Cy will stick to Rod," Lila told Bertie Lou. "He thinks the world of him. Cy's so good-hearted. He'd think Rod lacked confidence in him if you weren't making the most of his friendship. Cy doesn't expect you to save for a rainy day, Bertie Lou, because it doesn't rain on people he likes."

And Molly always kept reminding Bertie Lou of Rod's good luck in having a man like Cyrus Loree interested in him.

"I heard that Rod's slated to keep on moving upstairs in his company," she remarked, not troubling to add that Lila had given her the information.

Bertie Lou could see no reason after a while, why they should not have a place where they could entertain in a way that would do credit to Cyrus' generosity.

"I think he expects it of us," she argued with Rod when he vetoed the idea of moving. "And it will be saving in a way," she went on. "Think what we are spending now on theater parties and suppers. If we had a larger place and a maid we could come home for a 'snack' after the show. Why, we wouldn't need to take our guests to a theater at all. We could throw a decent party at home."

"Anyway, it looks cheap for us to live in a walkup apartment and not keep a maid. Everybody knows you are getting a good salary now."

Rod signed the lease on the dotted line for the new place, though he said he wished they were moving into their own home instead.

Bertie Lou seemed to have forgotten all their earlier plans for a home. Her life was filled with satisfaction over the present. Care had taken his black shadow off their portal. They had money for a good time and good clothes; health and a lot of jolly friends. Bertie Lou was too happy in the new apartment with the glass-enclosed shower and sunken tub, the many-mirrored dressing rooms and the wood-burning fireplace to dream of anything more.

Lila insisted upon helping her furnish the place. "You can use my credit at the shops," she proposed; "you'll have to hunt around to get just the right things."

She accompanied Bertie Lou on several shopping expeditions to exclusive decorators and furniture dealers. "Oh, this is what you want," here and "that's just the very thing for your guest room," there, until Bertie Lou had almost unconsciously run up a number of rather large bills at several expensive houses.

But it was well worth while, she thought. The apartment was beautiful. And had she not heard Cyrus and Rod discussing the value of credit?

Even wealthy people, Cyrus had said, bought motor cars on the deferred payment plan. But what Bertie Lou failed to realize was that these people in taking advantage of this policy were inspired by motives other than merely acquiring a car. . . . it meant something to conserve their cash for use in their own enterprises. . . . the returns would be far greater than the interest they paid to the automobile finance companies.

Bertie Lou really believed it to be a sound policy to create an impression of affluence, even if it were necessary to plunge Rod into debt. And being in debt now was entirely different from being in debt during the days of their penuriousness.

There was now plenty of money on hand for the larger and the small luxuries it had been necessary for them to deny themselves in the past. Bertie Lou went blithely ahead, aided and abetted by Lila and the example other women of wealth set for her.

In this saturnalia of extravagance Rod found himself unable to save. They were merely living on a higher scale, he complained. Bertie Lou said yes, but once the bills were paid their account at the bank would grow like a dandelion.

The first real party Bertie Lou gave in their new apartment was "hurled," as she said, in Cyrus' honor. For two reasons: First, he had made it possible and secondly, to speed him on a business trip he was taking. The affair went off beautifully and smoothly. Even Rod was a little puffed up over his domain and his attractive and exquisitely-gowned wife.

Lila, dancing with him to radio music, laughed up her sleeve. There was a thought in her head about a lamb. It was about time, she decided, to start him toward the place whence little fatted lambs never return.

The next day she called Rod on the telephone and asked him to come and take her rope of pearls and bracelets down to the office. "Please don't send anyone else," she requested. "I'll feel easier if I know you are looking after them."

Rod went to her apartment during the luncheon hour. Lila was just sitting down to a chop and a slice of pineapple. . . . there was her figure to consider.

Rod was invited to stay. He would have declined on a genuine plea of pressure of business at the office but Lila gave him no opportunity. She quickly turned to the waitress and ordered a plate for him.

She sent her own plate back to wait for a fresh chop with Rod.

While they partook of a fruit cup which she asked to have served to "dawdle" over, Lila talked about the party.

"Quite a change from Wayville," she remarked after a compliment to Bertie Lou's ability in entertaining. "Fate hasn't dealt so badly with you, Rod, has it?"

Rod swallowed a marshmallow cherry. "I've surely got a lot to be thankful for," he agreed. Lila smiled, and into her eyes came a slightly mocking light.

"And once, if you remember," she said very softly, "you told me everything had come to an end for you."

Rod grinned sheepishly. "If we all quit the first time we thought the show was over we'd miss a lot of good acts," he replied.

"I really wasn't bad luck, or poison ivy, or anything like that, after all, was I?" Lila pursued.

She was leaning forward, elbows on the table, chin cupped in rose-soft palms.

"You thought I'd spoiled your life didn't you?" Her voice was jokingly infected, but her eyes were now serious and inquiring.

Rod put down his spoon. "Yes, I thought so once, Lila, and I had a pretty tough time for a while. But I guess I'm so deep in your debt now that I couldn't think about that even if I wanted to."

"Oh, you don't owe me anything. If you still hate me a little go right ahead and enjoy it. Maybe I'd be flattered."

"I'm sorry, but I don't hate you at all. How could I? Seriously, Lila, I owe you more than I ever can repay you for getting me a chance with Cy."

"I'm glad you don't regret taking it."

"To be frank, I didn't like the idea at first because . . . well, you know . . . but when a thing is dead and buried there's no use rattling its skeleton, is there?"

"Thank goodness, you've got more sense than you used to have," Lila observed. Then to the girl who brought the chop: "Is there any pie? Serve it for Mr. Bryer and bring a bunch of grapes for me."

The "pie" was a tart, filled with fresh, hothouse strawberries and Creme Chantilly. Very delicious, Rod said. They had coffee and then he told Lila he really must rush back to the office. She made no attempt to detain him.

"I'll get the things," she said, and started to her boudoir. "Cy was going to take them down this morning on his way to the station . . . but we forgot about it. I'm afraid to keep them in the apartment when he's away." She moved on out of the room and Rod went into the hall to get his things on.

Lila came to him there in a few minutes, a leather-covered case in her hands. "Just my pearl necklace and the two diamond bracelets," she said, giving the case to him. Rod took it under his arm.

"Thank you so much for bothering to come for them," Lila said. "I know they'll be safe with you."

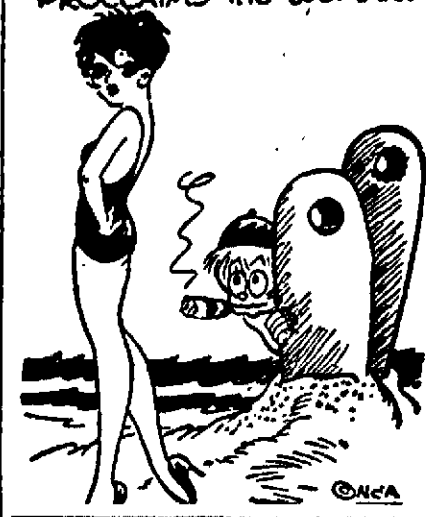

Rod thanked her for the luncheon and hurried away. At the office he placed the case in an inner compartment of the safe and turned the lock. As far as he knew only himself and Cyrus held the combination to that lock.

Lila telephoned again a few days later to ask him if it would be too much trouble to bring the gems back to her. She wanted to wear them that night, she explained. Rod replied that it wouldn't be any trouble . . . the day's rush was over.

With the case in his possession he started for the subway. He had not as yet acquired the habit of hailing taxicabs. But the thought of the milling crowds in the subway at this hour caused him to take a cab. Bet-

AUGUST - another peak DUNLOP GAINS 99%

American motorists boost Dunlop sales to new peaks! During August 99% above last August.

The May peak was 62% higher. June 65% and July, up 97%.

Peak sales result from peak quality. The supreme quality of Dunlops is constantly proven by the unequalled service of the 26 million Dunlop tires now in use.

To insure service-giving qualities Dunlop has advantages in tire-making which cannot be equaled by any other manufacturer.

For example: 40 years' tire building experience . . . vast Dunlop-owned rubber plantations . . . over $195,000,000 in resources . . . and 45,000 trained craftsmen. All of these are evidence that Dunlop's peak quality can and will be continued.

As Dunlop dealers are enjoying new peaks—month after month—you will find their enthusiastic service to your advantage. With Dunlop quality long established, dealers will see that you personally are pleased.

Such dealer service, plus peak quality—as proven by the 26 million Dunlops now running—should mean that your next tires will be Dunlops.

Our Presidents

During Jackson's administration, South Carolina, under the leadership of John C. Calhoun, declared that a law passed by Congress, increasing the tax on all cotton and woolen goods imported from abroad, should not be enforced in that state. The people became heated; war threatened, but Jackson stood firm, declaring that unless South Carolina obeyed he would send troops.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

HENRY CLAY
Jackson's firmness and the wisdom of Henry Clay saved the situation. Clay persuaded Congress to make the tax lighter.

The affair stirred bitterness, however; the South holding that imported manufactures were cheaper than New England's.

Wise men now began to fear the trouble which later brought about the Civil War. The South felt it must have new territory. No new states had been admitted for fifteen years at the time Arkansas came in as a slave state, in 1836, balanced by Michigan, in 1837. What is now Oklahoma had been taken for Indians who were made to move from Georgia and Florida.

RAILROAD OFFICERS CONSIDER PLACING AUTOMATIC SIGNAL

Green Bay and Western to Confer in Regard to Matter, Council Told

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A communication from the Green Bay and Western railroad company was read during the meeting of the council Tuesday evening in which it was announced that representatives of the company will be here this week to interview officials in regard to placing an electric signal at the railroad crossing on Shawano-st. This step is taken as the result of the recent accident at that crossing in which Norman Ortleib and Mr. Todd were injured when their car crashed into a box car standing on the tracks.

Application for a building permit, made by Clarence Beaudoin to erect a garage on his property in the Fifth ward, was granted. An application by David Vahderveer to erect a filling station, to construct an oil drainage pit and to move the present building at his place of business back 40 feet also was granted. These permits were presented at the previous meeting of the council. The price for submitting bids for coal for the city hall was continued until the next meeting of the council on Sept. 26.

The street commissioner was instructed to purchase a team of horses from Zeim of Marlon, and to give in a horse now in use by the city for $125 and to pay an additional sum of $400 cash. A request from the American Legion that the charge of $30.00 for electricity used on the grounds during the recent homecoming celebration be canceled, was granted.

CLINTONVILLE MAN LION CLUB SPEAKER

Twenty Club Members Accompany Walter Olen to New London Luncheon

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—About twenty members of the Clintonville Lions club were guests at the weekly luncheon at the Elwood hotel. Walter Olen, president of the Clintonville Four Wheel Drive company was speaker of the day, choosing for his subject The Birthday of the Constitution. Tuesday, the speaker pointed out, was the anniversary of the day on which members of the republic met to draft the constitution of United States, which was later adopted. Mr. Olen gave a careful resume of the difficulties encountered by the men instrumental in formulating the important document, stating that territories represented by the colonists were deeply antagonistic to one another through their own feelings of superiority and supremacy. Meetings first called for the purpose were either ignored or only sparsely attended, and at one meeting only four men appeared. Through the efforts of men who later became famous in American history the personal feelings and the cardinal points of the constitution were made permanent in the document which is now our national code.

4 FINED FOR ILLEGAL PRAIRIE CHICK HUNTING

New London—Shooting prairie chickens out of season was the charge preferred against four local men in Judge Crandall's court at Wisconsin Rapids on Monday, following their arrest on Saturday by game wardens in Wood-co. The men were represented in court by Francis H. Schoemaker, of this city. They were fined and their guns, ammunition, game and licenses were confiscated, but all but their fines were remitted when they testified that they did not know of the recent order of the conservation commission, which closed the season on prairie chicken four days before it was to open. The minimum fine of $25 and costs was imposed. The hunters involved were Frank Wolftrath, August Bonnin of this city, and Frank and John Muscovitch of the town of Liberty.

Winning public preference because of greater dollar value

With the arrival of the new Chrysler-built Plymouth the search for greater dollar value in the lowest-priced field is made surprisingly simple. It is so unmistakably in a class by itself — with its full size, its new and original style, its fine quality of finish and fittings.

But the contrast in Plymouth's favor becomes still more startling in the matter of performance—in its speed, pick-up and power, from its new "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine using any gasoline; its smoothness and roadability; its safety because of light action internal-expanding hydraulic 4-wheel brakes.

The buyer who seeks dollar-value first will inevitably choose the new Plymouth, after observing the very significant contrasts in greater dollar-for-dollar value it presents to every other car in the lowest-priced field.

CHAMBER MEMBERS WILL CAST VOTES ON AGRICULTURE

Organization Will Determine Attitude on Recommendations of National Bureau

Members of Appleton Chamber of Commerce soon will be called upon to vote on the referendum on the report of the special committee on agriculture of the chamber of commerce of the United States. Seven questions, all on phases of the agricultural situation which have been a topic for discussion throughout the country for several years, will be voted on.

The national chamber has submitted a report of its investigation on each of the seven questions and in each instance has recommended action to be taken. It also has submitted a negative report on the questions so members of chambers of commerce throughout the country may have an opportunity to review both sides of the recommendations.

Information submitted to the local chamber in the referendum is the result of nine regional agricultural conferences held in 1925 and 1926 at Kansas City, Portland, St. Paul, Fresno, Salt Lake City, Montgomery, Asheville, Indianapolis and Harrisburg. Member organizations in the various cities had charge of the conferences, bringing together representatives of agriculture and other businesses and industries for a discussion of agricultural problems. A total of 40 states were represented at the meetings by 1,068 delegates. Eighteen problems were brought before the conferences, some national in scope, others regional.

ORGANIZE AGRICULTURE
The national committee reported no attempt is made to suggest legislative remedies but that it has suggested recommendations with a view of strengthening, here and there, the complex economic structures of agriculture to regain its proper balance in our national life, the reports say, is to organize it largely on the modern lines of other American industries. This would involve the intelligent control and distribution of seasonal or annual surplus production, thus stabilizing prices and avoiding glut markets; improving methods of orderly, efficient commodity marketing through cooperative action; increasing unit production; and developing favorable facilities for production and marketing credit.

The first recommendation of the national chamber is that there be strict coordination of land, reclamation and reforestation policies of the various branches of the federal government concerned with activities in those fields. The end to be accomplished is to be made of lands for the benefit of the nation both in the immediate and distant future.

OPPOSE RECLAMATION
The second recommendation, is published in this case is the most exacting in the most exacting of additional areas for agricultural production, at public expense, be delayed, until such additional production of agricultural commodities as would result therefrom can be demonstrated to be an economic need of the nation. This recommendation makes the chamber opposed to reclamation and irrigation projects such as are being carried out in the west at the present time until such time as there is need for products to be raised on the land.

The third recommendation is that the chamber reaffirm its commitment to the principle of reasonable protection for American industries, inclusive of its applicability to those branches of American agriculture subject to destructive competition from importations of foreign agricultural products and of benefits to any considerable section of the country where land is cheap and producers are willing to accept low standards of living to be able to undersell the American producer.

The other recommendations are: SUPPORTS COOPS
That the principle of cooperative marketing based upon the establishment of right of producers of agricultural commodities "to act together in associations, corporate or otherwise with or without capital stock, in collectively processing and manufacturing, preparing for market, handling and marketing in interstate and foreign commerce, such products of persons so engaged" be supported, and that the chamber recommend to producers of agricultural commodities association into such groups along economic lines. That the agricultural credit requirements of the United States should be met by full development and adaptation of the existing agricultural credit facilities to local and commodity needs rather than the creation of new facilities; That a federal farm board be created, the members to be appointed by the president of the United States and be charged in considering the problems peculiar to agriculture and submitting its conclusions and recommendations to congress from time to time; That adequate appropriations be made for continuing economic and scientific agricultural research by the department and for making the results of such researches available to the farmers of the nation.

SCHOOL MEETING PROGRAM FIXED

Announce Schedule for Conference of City Superintendents at Madison

Madison—(AP)—Programs for the two-day conference of city superintendents of schools were announced Monday by O. H. Plenzke, assistant state superintendent of public instruction. On Sept. 27, State Superintendent Callahan has called a meeting of the city school heads. On the following day their association will hold its annual convention in the same meeting hall, the Assembly chamber here, at the call of Supt. C. E. Hutton, Marinette, president and Supt. Henry Smith, Antigo, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Callahan will open and address the conference he has called and his speech will be followed by a half-hour discussion period.

Then these subjects will be brought forward: Business and Education, Robert L. Cooley, director Milwaukee vocational school; Music Credits, Prof. Edgar Gordon, University of Wisconsin; School Marks, Charles C. Bishop, Oshkosh Superintendent of Schools; and Summer Study Journeys, W. H. Lighty, University extension division.

During an afternoon session Elias Evans, president of Ripon college, will take on "Education: What is it all about?" and Henry Joy Baker, clinical psychologist for the Detroit Public schools, will discuss the present needs in schools for exceptional children of Wisconsin.

The Association program, Sept. 28, is longer. It will also be opened by Mr. Callahan, who will present the education legislation program for 1929. LOCAL EDUCATORS TO HAVE BOOKS PUBLISHED

C. O. Davis, Ann Arbor, Mich., widely known authority on secondary education, met with Superintendent B. J. Rohan and principals Alfred Oosterhaus, Frank B. Younger, and M. H. Small at the Lincoln school late last week to discuss the junior high school science material.

The books used in the science departments in the junior high schools now in mimeograph form, all have been written by members of the public school staff. After reviewing the books, Mr. Davis agreed to edit them, and they will be published in book form as quickly as possible.

The books to be published are: The Story of Our Food Supply, by Alfred Oosterhaus, principal of Roosevelt junior high school; Our Earth and Its Neighbors, by Irma Roemer, science teacher at Wilson junior high school; Chemistry as Man's Servant, by E. E. Colten, a teacher in Wilson junior high a year ago; Plant and Animal Neighbors, by Frank B. Younger, principal of McKinley junior high school; and Our Forests a National Problem, by Superintendent B. J. Rohan. The latter book will be the first book published. Mr. Rohan is working now on a book on electricity.

New Fashions House Furnishings Children's Apparel

Autumn again and with it a desire for new things—new frocks and hats, smart coats to wear when autumn winds blow, and a host of things small but important to the autumn ensemble. The house, too, needs an enlivening touch here and there—a new lamp, a rug, a rich bit of pottery.

The arrival of a new season finds Pettibone's ready with all that is new and smart for your home and for yourself. Thursday is our "At Home" day and we want you to visit us.

Guides to Fall Chic

It is the subtle little changes from season to season that make such an important mark upon the mode. A tuck or flare here, a clever modernistic ornament there and your frock is marked as one of the current season. Here are several points that characterize autumn of 1928.

- Red Brown as a Smart Shade
- Side Fullness in Frocks and Coats
- The Continued Smartness of Prints
- The Lavish Use of Fur
- The Softer, More Feminine Lines in Coats and Frocks
- The Uneven Hemline
- The Use of Velvet for Day and Evening
- The Modernistic Touch in Accessories

Lamps Show Modern Trends

In no way can the modern be combined with more conservative periods so well as by the use of lamps in the new fashion. Modern in design and coloring, they fit wonderfully into any decorative theme. The Gift Shop has other alluring pieces that give a new atmosphere to the home.

Copper and Brown Are Equally Smart for One's Clothes and The Home

The tones of leaves as they turn make an exquisite blend of shades beautifully reproduced in silks and velvets for autumn wear. They are particularly rich and lovely in the new printed velvets so smart for afternoon. And for the home there are many new drapery materials that blend orange, magenta and copper and various shades of brown. The tendency is toward richer and more gorgeous colorings for the home, both in draperies and rugs, with emphasis on modernistic themes.

Young Moderns Are As Fashionable As Their Elders

Fall opening fashions for the juveniles are as carefully planned as for grown-ups. New coats, frocks, hats, hose are here in the styles that appeal to both the juniors and their mothers. Cotton frocks for school, silk frocks for occasions when something finer is needed. For boys there are new blouses, shirts, knickers, ties and for the very small boys smart "Tom Sawyer" suits. Junior girls' wear will be found on second and fourth floors. Junior boys' clothes in the Downstairs store.

The Traffic Officer

If every car owner used
Champion Spark Plugs
there would be fewer traffic jams due to cars
stalling.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive silicite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis discloses that Champion spark plugs make all driving conditions
